Khrush Revises A-Test Ban Offer

No-Aggression Pact Is Included In Package Plan

By PRESTON GROVER

BERLIN (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told a cheering East German audience Tuesday that in exchange for a non-aggression pact with the West he would be willing to go along with the United States and Britain on ending ear tests in space, in the atmosphere and under water.

Khrushchev led into his offer by calling President Kennedy's speeches in Berlin and West German last week "a dangerous development."

Khrushchev spoke in advance of talks on a nuclear test ban scheduled to start in Moscow with U.S. and British negotiators July 15.

He deliberately left underground tests out of his proposal, and appeared to write off an agreement on this as impossible.

Partial Ban Proposed Before

Khrushchev appeared to be making a new package offer to the West, but the Soviet leader himself said he had made the partial ban proposal before. A suggestion of this was given by British Labor Party leader Harold Wilson on his recent trip to Moscow.

After Kremlin talks with Khrushchev, Wilson said he felt the best hope was for a limited test ban which would exclude underground nuclear tests. The West contends on-site inspection is necessary to guard against cheating with underground tests and has insisted the Soviet Union permit up to seven inspections a year.

Khrushchev maintains no such inspections are necessary but offered up to three on-site inspections. However, he has said he will not go any farther.

To the East Germans, Khrushchev said of a limited test ban accord:

"We have made this proposal before, but the Western powers frustrated an agreement advancing supplementary conditions which envisage large-scale inspection of our territory."

Inspection Not Involved

If the non-aggression pact-partial ban proposal were accepted, said Khrushchev, "the question of inspection does not any longer arise, since the Western powers declared that no inspections whatever are needed to check the fulfillment by the states of their commitments to stop nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water."

The Russians did propose in November, 1961, a ban on all but underwater tests, providing the West would accept an uninspected moratorium on underground testing. The West refused the condition. Thereafter the Russians insisted on an all-or-nothing ban.

Now Khrushchev appears to be revising his offer, this time with a new condition attached.

Diplomatic sources said the West might be listening with interest to the proposal in this form.

8 Steel Firms Charged With Price-Fixing

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal government renewed its charges of price-fixing in steel products Tuesday, with an indictment against eight firms in the $75 million a year steel castings industry.

Nine executives of the companies were named in the indictment, including two who were fined last year for price fixing of steel forgings.

The Justice Department charged that the eight firms launched a conspiracy in 1956 to fix prices of steel castings and that the scheme continued until at least 1961.

The indictment said executives of the firms met monthly in hotels or clubs in New York, Pittsburgh and Absecon, N.J., to agree on general price increases, catalogue prices and exchange information on identical prices to be quoted to customers.

The castings are widely used in the construction, ship building, petroleum and mining industries.

If convicted, the individual defendants could receive a year each in prison and they and their companies could be fined up to $50,000 each. Arraignment on the charges was put off until later this month.

The firms named as defendants were said by the government to control 80 per cent of the nation's sales of steel castings. They are Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Blaw-Knox Co., Erie Forge and Steel Corp., Textron Inc., General Steel Industries Inc., Birdsboro Corp. and the Penn Steel Castings Co.

Mac, Wilson In Row

LONDON (AP) — Labor party leader Harold Wilson accused Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Tuesday of taking a petulant attitude and trying to laugh off the sex and spy scandals which have shaken Britain.

In a face to face collision in the House of Commons, Macmillan snapped back that finding the spies was a security success—not a failure — and angrily told Wilson he thought his remarks offensive.

The row was touched off by a dispute over the way the Conservative government handled recent security disclosures. These were topped by Monday's revelation that diplomat-turned-newsman Harold Philby was the mysterious "third man" who warned renegade diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean to flee England in 1951.

Burgess and MacLean have been in Moscow since and Philby is believed to have slipped across the Iron Curtain since he disappeared from Beirut last January.

News that Philby, once first secretary of the British Embassy in Washington and believed head of security there, has actually been a Soviet agent stunned the House of Commons.

Half-Million Neapolitans Acclaim JFK

President, Segni Agree To Work For NATO Unity

By JAMES M. LONG

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—President Kennedy rode smiling Tuesday night through streets lined by a half million cheering Neapolitans and headed back to Washington from a 10-day European tour designed to strengthen the Atlantic community.

Kennedy's blue and silver jet took off from Naples' Capodichino Airport at 7:33 p.m. (1:33 p.m. EST). It was the windup of one of the busiest days on the tour that had taken him to Bonn and the Berlin wall, to his ancestral home in Ireland, to talks with British Prime Minister Macmillan and then to Italy.

The first Roman Catholic President of the United States was received at the Vatican Tuesday morning by Pope Paul VI, the new supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic church. the Pope praised Kennedy's efforts to end racial discrimination in the United States and to promote world peace.

Joint Communique

Kennedy and President Antonio Segni issued in Rome a joint communique in which Italy expressed a favorable attitude toward participating in studies on the possible development of a NATO multilateral nuclear fleet, a U.S.-proposed project that has had fair sailing so far only in the United States and West Germany.

"Both sides confirmed their firm intention of persevering in the search for appropriate means to alleviate international tensions," the communique said.

At the southern headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Naples, Kennedy called for continued cooperation between the United States and Western Europe as a step toward world unity.

Again challenging French President Charles de Gaulle's separatist policy and the idea that the United States may return to isolationism, he said intelligent self-interest commits the United States to Europe's defense.

The American president and Segni drove from Rome to Naples.

Negro Capital March Aug. 28

NEW YOR K(AP)—Negro leaders said Tuesday a civil rights march on Washington will "definitely" take place Aug. 28. They said it will be "the strongest action, numerically speaking, that we have ever held."

The decision was reached at a secret conclave of executives of the nation's six largest Negro organizations. None would venture an estimate as to the number of participants in the march, which is scheduled to coincide with congressional debate on President Kennedy's civil rights bill.

Past estimates by Negro leaders have ranged from 100,000 to 300,000 persons.

The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said "we'll have machinery that will control the demonstration. No acts that could be considered civil disobedience will occur."

Brush Fire Threat To Famed Zoo Eases

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A major brush fire burned to within 50 feet of the famed Griffith Park Zoo and its 1,100 animals, reptiles and birds Tuesday, forcing evacuation of 1,200 visitors before a shift in capricious winds eased the critical danger.

The fire—which sent smoke billowing almost a mile above the Los Angeles - Hollywood area — for a time appeared to threaten the zoo itself, a landmark in the nation's biggest municipal recreation area. About 200 firemen, supported by a half dozen borate air bombers, saved the compound from the flames.

NAACP Asks Bills Providing Full Integration

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) requested Tuesday federal legislation to virtually eliminate all barriers to integration. It also announced plans for a series of nationwide demonstrations to rally support for its proposals.

The demonstrations will culminate with a giant national civil rights legislative convention in Washington, D.C., Aug. 6-8.

NAACP delegates and their leaders refused, even privately, to concede that their proposals — which go far beyond those recently sent to Congress by President Kennedy — had little chance of passage.

"They must be adopted," said Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel. "Those are our minimal demands." Carter introduced the resolution embodying the legislative program to the 54th annual NAACP convention.

The resolution, adopted unanimously by some 2,000 cheering, clapping delegates, called the President's civil rights proposals "inadequate to meet the minimum needs of the existing situation."

While commending the President's program as "a step toward discharging the moral obligation of our federal government to its Negro citizens" the resolution urged these additional measures:

1. Establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission with the right to subpoena witnesses and evidence, and the legal teeth to enforce its decrees.

2. Extension of the attorney general's authority to initiate court suits to include any area of civil rights. (President Kennedy has proposed that the attorney general be given the power to initiate court action only in school desegregation cases.)

3. Provide for legal sanctions against labor unions that practice discrimination.

Seven Dead, 36 Hurt In Crash Of Airliner

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — A Mohawk Airlines Martin 404 crashed in a blinding rain and hailstorm seconds after takeoff Tuesday. The pilot, co-pilot and five passengers were killed.

The other 36 persons on board were injured, 21 of them critically.

All but one man were hospitalized. After the crash, he walked away in a daze, hailed a taxi and ironically checked into the Mohawk Motel where he was treated by a physician for minor injuries.

Witnesses said the airliner roared down the runway and climbed into a thick black thundercloud. The plane got no higher than 100 feet off the runway when it rolled over on its left side, wobbled once or twice trying to regain flying speed, then plunged with a sickening crash to earth.

Most of the survivors crawled through a five-foot hole in the side of the plane. The driving rain and hail the size of large marbles turned the field surrounding the wreckage into a quagmire of mud.

Mohawk said the pilot, Capt. R. M. Dennis of Elberon, N. J., and the co-pilot, John W. Neff of Wilmington, Del., were killed.

The five passengers who died were not immediately identified.

Mary Ann Miara of Sayerville, N. J., the stewardess, survived the crash, the airline said.

Richard Baldwin of Danbury, Conn., one of the 40 passengers and 3 crewmen, said as the plane waited on the end of the runway for a takeoff, torrents of rain and hail pummeled it.

"We got up to about 100 feet in the black clouds, then the plane went completely sideways and hit the ground," Baldwin said.

"I sat on the left said and watched the wing crumble. I think the plane rolled over.

"There was a big hole in the side of the plane. I unsnapped my belt and crawled out. I think that most of the people who got out escaped from the hole in the plane."

N.Z. Plane Falls; 30 Feared Dead

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (Wednesday) (AP)—A New Zealand airliner crashed in rugged hill country early Wednesday, and officials feared all 30 persons aboard were killed.

The DC3 of the New Zealand National Airways Corp. went down on the 3,000-foot-high Maimai Range on a flight from Auckland to Tauranga, 95 miles to the southeast, on New Zealand's North Island.

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army draft quota of 12,000 men for September, the same as for August, was announced Tuesday by the Defense Department.

RFK Says Congress Can Confer Right Of Public Accommodation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Tuesday "there is a serious question" whether Negroes or other Americans have constitutional right to be served in a private establishment which has no connection with the federal, state or local government.

The courts have never held there is such a right, he said, but promptly added:

"Congress clearly has the authority under the Constitution to confer such a right."

Kennedy, appearing for the second day before the Senate Commerce Committee, said the legislation it is considering would do just that: confer the right to such service.

The committee is considering the key plank of the administration's civil rights program—a bill to ban racial discrimination by owners of stores, restaurants, theaters and other business establishments catering to the public. The legislation would apply to establishments doing a substantial portion of their trade in interstate commerce.

Political skirmishing broke out during the hearing, with Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., serving notice they would not offer any amendments to the public accommodations bill.

Both contended it is up to the Democratic majority to propose any perfecting amendments because they didn't want to be accused of crippling or watering down its provisions. There are 12 Democrats and 5 Republicans on the committee.

Evers' Accused Killer Indicted

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Byron De La Beckwith, a white 42-year-old ex-Marine, was indicted on a charge of murder Tuesday for the sniper slaying of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers.

District Atty. William L. Waller has said he will seek the death penalty in the case.

Beckwith was served with a formal notice of the grand jury's action Tuesday afternoon in his county jail cell, and arraignment was set for 4 p.m. EDT Wednesday before Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick.

The Hinds County grand jury that returned the indictment was made up of 17 white men and one Negro.

Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), was shot to death in the driveway of his home early on the morning of June 12. He had just returned from an integration rally.

Evers' Brother Says His Life Threatened

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Charles Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar W. Evers, said Tuesday his life was threatened Monday night.

Evers, state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the threat was one of several since he took his brother's place in the desegregation's fight.

Evers said a telephone caller said, "We killed your brother and now we're gonna kill you."

Evers said he told the caller, "if you are man enough to come out in the streets, just you come; don't shoot me in the back."

Pontiff Praises Kennedy Effort For Civil Rights

VATICAN CITY (UPI) —President Kennedy held a historic 36-minute meeting Tuesday with newly crowned Pope Paul VI, who told him he had prayed for Kennedy's efforts to end segregation in the United States.

The unprecedented meeting brought together the first Roman Catholic President of the United States with the Pope only two days after his coronation. It was only the third time a U.S. chief of state has met a pontiff while in office.

In greeting Kennedy, Pope Paul disclosed a little known fact—that he had met Kennedy once before.

"With great joy do we welcome your excellency to the Vatican, recalling with true happiness our first meeting almost 25 years ago, when, as a young man, you accompanied your parents to the coronation of Pope Pius XII."

The pontiff spoke in clear but Italian-accented English, sitting on a chair in the library of the Vatican Palace. Kennedy sat beside him during the talk. Kennedy himself did not make a speech.

In an obvious reference to racial problems in the United States the Pope said, "We are ever mindful in our prayers of the efforts to ensure to all your citizens the equal benefits of citizenship which have as their foundation the equality of all men because of their dignity as persons and children of God."

The pontiff spoke of Kennedy's "untiring striving to obtain world peace" and said, "it is to be commended highly, and we are confident that these labors will find a ready response in all men of good will."

He also mentioned the "impressive developements in the explorations of space to which the United States has made notable contributions."

Crazed GI Kills 3

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—An artilleryman went berserk during a motel holdup Monday night and shot three persons to death. Seven others were hurt.

Police identified the soldier as Kenneth H. Schlomann of Ft. Wainwright, an Army base just outside this city. The Army said Schlomann's home was Madelia, Minn.

Capt. John Monagle of the state police identified the dead as O. C. (Shorty) Howard, a cab driver; George Walker Stockton, a tourist from Brookston, Ind., and Tex Leonard, manager of the El Rancho Hotel just south of Fairbanks.

Schlomann was booked on three counts of murder.

Monagle said Schlomann forced Howard to drive him to a roller rink six miles south of here, by threatening the cab driver with a knife. When they arrived, Howard scuffled with the soldier and then ran toward the entrance to the rink. Schlomann, according to witnesses, grabbed a rifle in the cab and fired, killing Howard.

The soldier then fired several shots into the crowded rink. Ralph Miller was hit by a bullet and his arm had to be amputated.

Several persons were cut by flying glass.

From there, Schlomann drove the cab south to the motel. He got out of the vehicle and fired at an unidentified man but missed. The man crawled up under the eaves of the motel roof and Schlomann went inside the motel office.

There he ordered Michael Barry Leonard, 18, son of Tex Leonard, to give him money. Michael called his father while Michael's mother, who had been on the telephone, bent down under the counter and called the police.

When Leonard produced a money box, Schlomann kept yelling for him to count the money out loud. Then he shot Leonard dead and wounded Leonard's wife, Isabelle, in the hip.

Soviet Ring Is Broken Up By FBI Men

Russ U.N. Official, Wife Seized; Two Others Left U.S.

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI agents smashed a Soviet military intelligence spy ring Tuesday with the arrest of four persons including a Russian working as a United Nations official and another who took the name of a real Catholic priest.

A late-evening announcement by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy listed two other persons as conspirators in a plot to furnish the Soviet Union with information about U. S. military installations, missile launch sites, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities.

Four of the six in the alleged spy ring were arrested Tuesday — two in New York, and two in Washington. The other two left the United States in May after tours of duty with the Byelorussian mission and the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

It was the second Soviet espionage case disclosed by the United States in two days and involved all the traditional trappings of spies — secret messages left at "drop points," codes, ciphers and secret writings.

Chief Lists Identities

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified those arrested in New York as:

—Ivan Dmitrievich Egorov, 41, and his wife, Alexsandria, 39. Egorov is a personnel officer in the United Nations Secretariat. He formerly served at Soviet Embassy posts in India and Canada.

Those arrested in Washington were:

—A man known to the FBI as Robert Keistutis Baltch and his wife, who was known before her marriage to Baltch as Joy Ann Garber. The real Robert Baltch is a Catholic priest and the real Joy Ann Garber is a Norwalk, Conn., housewife.

The FBI said that the Egorovs fought the agents who arrested them in New York and put up "considerable resistance" before they were subdued.

The Baltchs offered no resistance. After their arrest and before their arraignment, their apartment was searched by FBI agents.

A complaint filed by the FBI said the Baltchs assumed the identities of the two living Americans starting some time before 1959. The real Robert Baltch and the real Joy Ann Garber were not aware until Tuesday that two other persons had been using their names.

Two Others Cited

In addition to the four arrested, there were these other men cited in the complaint who have now left the country:

—Aleksei Ivanovich Galkin, 45, who left the United States last May 10 after several years as first secretary of the Byelorussian mission to the United Nations.

—Peter Egorovich Maslennikov, 43, who left the country a week earlier after duty as first secretary of the Russian mission at the United Nations.

The FBI complaint said that the four persons arrested, together with Galkin, Maslennikov, "and other officers of the Soviet military intelligence in Moscow, New York City, and the District of Columbia conspired to communicate, deliver and transmit to Russia information relating to United States military and Navy installations, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities."

All but one man were hospitalized. After the crash, he walked away in a daze, hailed a taxi and ironically checked into the Mohawk Motel where he was treated by a physician for minor injuries.

Witnesses said the airliner roared down the runway and climbed into a thick black thundercloud. The plane got no higher than 100 feet off the runway when it rolled over on its left side, wobbled once or twice trying to regain flying speed, then plunged with a sickening crash to earth.

Most of the survivors crawled through a five-foot hole in the side of the plane. The driving rain and hail the size of large marbles turned the field surrounding the wreckage into a quagmire of mud.

Mohawk said the pilot, Capt. R. M. Dennis of Elberon, N. J., and the co-pilot, John W. Neff of Wilmington, Del., were killed.

The five passengers who died were not immediately identified.

Mary Ann Miara of Sayerville, N. J., the stewardess, survived the crash, the airline said.

Richard Baldwin of Danbury, Conn., one of the 40 passengers and 3 crewmen, said as the plane waited on the end of the runway for a takeoff, torrents of rain and hail pummeled it.

"We got up to about 100 feet in the black clouds, then the plane went completely sideways and hit the ground," Baldwin said.

"I sat on the left said and watched the wing crumble. I think the plane rolled over.

"There was a big hole in the side of the plane. I unsnapped my belt and crawled out. I think that most of the people who got out escaped from the hole in the plane."

N.Z. Plane Falls; 30 Feared Dead

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (Wednesday) (AP)—A New Zealand airliner crashed in rugged hill country early Wednesday, and officials feared all 30 persons aboard were killed.

The DC3 of the New Zealand National Airways Corp. went down on the 3,000-foot-high Maimai Range on a flight from Auckland to Tauranga, 95 miles to the southeast, on New Zealand's North Island.

12,000-Man Draft Call

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army draft quota of 12,000 men for September, the same as for August, was announced Tuesday by the Defense Department.

Evers' Accused Killer Indicted

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Byron De La Beckwith, a white 42-year-old ex-Marine, was indicted on a charge of murder Tuesday for the sniper slaying of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers.

District Atty. William L. Waller has said he will seek the death penalty in the case.

Beckwith was served with a formal notice of the grand jury's action Tuesday afternoon in his county jail cell, and arraignment was set for 4 p.m. EDT Wednesday before Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick.

The Hinds County grand jury that returned the indictment was made up of 17 white men and one Negro.

Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), was shot to death in the driveway of his home early on the morning of June 12. He had just returned from an integration rally.

RFK Says Congress Can Confer Right Of Public Accommodation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Tuesday "there is a serious question" whether Negroes or other Americans have constitutional right to be served in a private establishment which has no connection with the federal, state or local government.

The courts have never held there is such a right, he said, but promptly added:

"Congress clearly has the authority under the Constitution to confer such a right."

Kennedy, appearing for the second day before the Senate Commerce Committee, said the legislation it is considering would do just that: confer the right to such service.

The committee is considering the key plank of the administration's civil rights program—a bill to ban racial discrimination by owners of stores, restaurants, theaters and other business establishments catering to the public. The legislation would apply to establishments doing a substantial portion of their trade in interstate commerce.

Political skirmishing broke out during the hearing, with Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., serving notice they would not offer any amendments to the public accommodations bill.

Both contended it is up to the Democratic majority to propose any perfecting amendments because they didn't want to be accused of crippling or watering down its provisions. There are 12 Democrats and 5 Republicans on the committee.

Evers' Brother Says His Life Threatened

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Charles Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar W. Evers, said Tuesday his life was threatened Monday night.

Evers, state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the threat was one of several since he took his brother's place in the desegregation's fight.

Evers said a telephone caller said, "We killed your brother and now we're gonna kill you."

Evers said he told the caller, "if you are man enough to come out in the streets, just you come; don't shoot me in the back."

Pontiff Praises Kennedy Effort For Civil Rights

VATICAN CITY (UPI) —President Kennedy held a historic 36-minute meeting Tuesday with newly crowned Pope Paul VI, who told him he had prayed for Kennedy's efforts to end segregation in the United States.

The unprecedented meeting brought together the first Roman Catholic President of the United States with the Pope only two days after his coronation. It was only the third time a U.S. chief of state has met a pontiff while in office.

In greeting Kennedy, Pope Paul disclosed a little known fact—that he had met Kennedy once before.

"With great joy do we welcome your excellency to the Vatican, recalling with true happiness our first meeting almost 25 years ago, when, as a young man, you accompanied your parents to the coronation of Pope Pius XII."

The pontiff spoke in clear but Italian-accented English, sitting on a chair in the library of the Vatican Palace. Kennedy sat beside him during the talk. Kennedy himself did not make a speech.

In an obvious reference to racial problems in the United States the Pope said, "We are ever mindful in our prayers of the efforts to ensure to all your citizens the equal benefits of citizenship which have as their foundation the equality of all men because of their dignity as persons and children of God."

The pontiff spoke of Kennedy's "untiring striving to obtain world peace" and said, "it is to be commended highly, and we are confident that these labors will find a ready response in all men of good will."

He also mentioned the "impressive developements in the explorations of space to which the United States has made notable contributions."

Soviet Ring Is Broken Up By FBI Men

Russ U.N. Official, Wife Seized; Two Others Left U.S.

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI agents smashed a Soviet military intelligence spy ring Tuesday with the arrest of four persons including a Russian working as a United Nations official and another who took the name of a real Catholic priest.

A late-evening announcement by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy listed two other persons as conspirators in a plot to furnish the Soviet Union with information about U. S. military installations, missile launch sites, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities.

Four of the six in the alleged spy ring were arrested Tuesday — two in New York, and two in Washington. The other two left the United States in May after tours of duty with the Byelorussian mission and the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

It was the second Soviet espionage case disclosed by the United States in two days and involved all the traditional trappings of spies — secret messages left at "drop points," codes, ciphers and secret writings.

Chief Lists Identities

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified those arrested in New York as:

—Ivan Dmitrievich Egorov, 41, and his wife, Alexsandria, 39. Egorov is a personnel officer in the United Nations Secretariat. He formerly served at Soviet Embassy posts in India and Canada.

Those arrested in Washington were:

—A man known to the FBI as Robert Keistutis Baltch and his wife, who was known before her marriage to Baltch as Joy Ann Garber. The real Robert Baltch is a Catholic priest and the real Joy Ann Garber is a Norwalk, Conn., housewife.

The FBI said that the Egorovs fought the agents who arrested them in New York and put up "considerable resistance" before they were subdued.

The Baltchs offered no resistance. After their arrest and before their arraignment, their apartment was searched by FBI agents.

A complaint filed by the FBI said the Baltchs assumed the identities of the two living Americans starting some time before 1959. The real Robert Baltch and the real Joy Ann Garber were not aware until Tuesday that two other persons had been using their names.

Two Others Cited

In addition to the four arrested, there were these other men cited in the complaint who have now left the country:

—Aleksei Ivanovich Galkin, 45, who left the United States last May 10 after several years as first secretary of the Byelorussian mission to the United Nations.

—Peter Egorovich Maslennikov, 43, who left the country a week earlier after duty as first secretary of the Russian mission at the United Nations.

The FBI complaint said that the four persons arrested, together with Galkin, Maslennikov, "and other officers of the Soviet military intelligence in Moscow, New York City, and the District of Columbia conspired to communicate, deliver and transmit to Russia information relating to United States military and Navy installations, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities."

Crazed GI Kills 3

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—An artilleryman went berserk during a motel holdup Monday night and shot three persons to death. Seven others were hurt.

Police identified the soldier as Kenneth H. Schlomann of Ft. Wainwright, an Army base just outside this city. The Army said Schlomann's home was Madelia, Minn.

Capt. John Monagle of the state police identified the dead as O. C. (Shorty) Howard, a cab driver; George Walker Stockton, a tourist from Brookston, Ind., and Tex Leonard, manager of the El Rancho Hotel just south of Fairbanks.

Schlomann was booked on three counts of murder.

Monagle said Schlomann forced Howard to drive him to a roller rink six miles south of here, by threatening the cab driver with a knife. When they arrived, Howard scuffled with the soldier and then ran toward the entrance to the rink. Schlomann, according to witnesses, grabbed a rifle in the cab and fired, killing Howard.

The soldier then fired several shots into the crowded rink. Ralph Miller was hit by a bullet and his arm had to be amputated.

Several persons were cut by flying glass.

From there, Schlomann drove the cab south to the motel. He got out of the vehicle and fired at an unidentified man but missed. The man crawled up under the eaves of the motel roof and Schlomann went inside the motel office.

There he ordered Michael Barry Leonard, 18, son of Tex Leonard, to give him money. Michael called his father while Michael's mother, who had been on the telephone, bent down under the counter and called the police.

When Leonard produced a money box, Schlomann kept yelling for him to count the money out loud. Then he shot Leonard dead and wounded Leonard's wife, Isabelle, in the hip.

Cambridge Negroes Won't March July 4

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Negro leaders called off late Tuesday night a scheduled demonstration for July 4.

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Negro leaders in this racially torn Eastern Shore community indicated they had cancelled plans for a July 4th demonstration late Tuesday night, and apparently will wait until National Guard troops leave the town July 5.

Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston, National Guard commander here, said he had been notified by a reporter who was at the Negro meeting, that the scheduled demonstrations had been cancelled at least until the Guard left town. Negro leaders were unavailable for comment, but sources close to the Negroes verified the action.

Gov. Tawes informed the mayor and city council earlier Tuesday the guardsmen will leave Friday noon, ending a three-week watch during which there has been a racial lull, but no agreement.

Negro leaders had announced they would tell the commanding officer Tuesday afternoon whether they would accept a council offer or whether they would try to resume demonstrations, particularly on Thursday.

Brig. Gen. George Gelston said the leaders were unable to arrange a meeting of their executive committee until Tuesday night for a decision.

Gelston has warned he will not allow any demonstrations while the guardsmen are in town.

While Tawes in his telegram to the council on withdrawal of the troops stated sternly they should "act immediately to negotiate a settlement," he expressed warmth in a subsequent wire on its action Monday night.

"Your proposed charter amendment on public accommodations, your decision to appoint promptly a human relations commission and your announcement of moving ahead with a public housing project are indicative of your sincere efforts to resolve the racial situation in Cambridge," the governor stated.

"I am hopeful and I urge the Negro leaders to give your proposal the serious consideration it deserves."

The guard will leave Friday noon regardless of what the Negroes decided, Tawes said.

He reminded the council he mobilized the troops at its request to maintain order which threatened at the time to get out of hand of local and state police control.

"At that time I most emphatically indicated to you and to the Negro leaders that the National Guard was not dispatched to Cambridge to maintain the status quo," he stated, "but rather to provide an atmosphere in which to initiate immediate fruitful negeotiations.

"The burden of maintaining the National Guard on active status in Cambridge is such that I cannot in conscience continue its presence there in the absence of any tangible evidence of progress."

In addition to a ban on demonstrations, the guard prohibited the sale of all alcoholic beverages and imposed a 10 p.m. curfew on the approximately 12,000 residents.

While Gov. Tawes was trying to prod a voluntary settlement in Cambridge, nine members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People camped for the second day in his reception room.

They are demanding he issue an executive order requiring all business establishments licensed by the state to serve Negroes. The governor is awaiting an opinion from the attorney general on his authority to issue such an order.

McKeldin Says 'Freedom Bell' Ringing In Md.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mayor McKeldin likened the current racial strife in Maryland Tuesday to the American clamor for independence in 1776.

"Freedom is ringing right now as it has not often rung before," he said at a luncheon. "In fact, the bells are so loud in certain places, as for instance, Cambridge, that they are giving some people a splitting headache.

"That's too bad, but when you set the bells to swinging, noise is going to follow."

The former governor said the reaction is accentuated because "we are too close to the bell tower.

"When time has removed it to a little distance, I have no doubt that the present clangor will soften into music, just as the bitterness and strife and fear of 1776 have long since faded out and all we hear today is the chime of the great bell proclaiming liberty throughout all the land."

Mayor McKeldin said racial discrimination should be eliminated statewide if for no other reason than "to make 20 per cent of Maryland healthier, more efficient, more active intellectually and more advanced culturally."

Apple, Peach Harvests Begin

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Home grown apples and peaches will be appearing in Maryland stores any day now.

U.S. crop reporters said Tuesday that early apples and peaches were coming from the Eastern Shore. And in the big Hancock fruit area, apples—mostly Lodi—were being picked and harvesting of peaches will start in about 10 days.

The Maryland fruit will join local vegetables in the markets.

Cucumbers are coming from the lower shore and early tomatoes are being picked. Green peas and spring snap beans from Free State farms have been available for weeks.

Potato digging also will start the end of this week on the Eastern Shore.

State grain farmers were hard at work. They were well into their second cutting of alfalfa hay and some were starting on the second harvest of clover mixture, a pace well ahead of last year.

Wheat was being combined in three Eastern Shore counties. Half of the land planted in barley has been harvested while soybeans and corn were showing good growth.

Adenauer Says He'd Welcome Russian Talks

Editor's Note — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer granted AP Correspondent John M. Hightower, accompanying President Kennedy's press party, an exclusive interview. Hightower, who won a Pulitzer Prize as a diplomatic reporter in Washington, reports on the interview in the following dispatch.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared Tuesday disarmament and nuclear test negotiations may be useful to the West in trying to persuade the Soviets to change their policy so that East-West tension can be reduced.

Adenauer, long reputed to be a hard-line Western leader in relations with Russia, said in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press that he would welcome "reasonable discussions" with the Soviet Union. But he warned against offering concessions unmatched by Soviet concessions of equal value.

The retiring West German government chief set forth and amplified these and other views in a long conversation in his private office in the Palais Schaumburg, where he conferred with President Kennedy a week ago.

Adenauer expressed conviction that the recently ratified French-German friendship pact, providing for periodic consultations between Bonn and Paris government chiefs, will serve the interests of all the Atlantic allies. He said it marks an end to 400 years of French-German hostility.

He declared his support for European unification in "close partnership" with the United States, thereby endorsing the main line of President Kennedy's European policy. But he emphasized his conviction that President Charles de Gaulle of France is firmly committed also to the alliance and that France forms with Germany "a firm bulwark against the threat to Europe from the East."

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Library Association will urge the Legislative Council Wednesday to recommend a state incentive fund for building libraries in the counties and Baltimore City.

The proposal was referred to the council by the 1962 legislature. It calls for local taxation to be supplemented by state money.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Room rent at Johns Hopkins Hospital has gone up $2.

The new rates are $30 a day for private room, $27 for semi-private and $26 in a ward.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Dulay Foster doubted Tuesday that Frederick A. Marburg owned a "homing automobile."

Police arrested the 33-year-old Marburg inside a tavern while outside his automobile was parked with three stolen law mowers in it. Marburg protested he had left the car two miles away.

Judge Foster ordered Marburg to serve seven years of a previous sentence on which he was on parole and tacked on another year.

Half-Million

United States—gave Kennedy an old time Fourth of July welcome two days ahead of time.

Almost everyone in the crowd lining the streets claimed a relative in the United States.

The Naples crowd pleased Kennedy. Members of his party said it was the most demonstrative of his whole tour. However, the Berlin turnout was considerably larger. It was estimated up to 1.5 million.

Just before he climbed into his plane, Kennedy said: "The people of Naples make us sorry to go—and happy to come back."

In the joint communique which he worked out with the Italian leaders, NATO was described as the "indispensable instrument for the consoldation of peace in freedom and security."

More importantly the document reflected the Italian government's refusal to accept De Gaulle's line that Western Europe should reduce American influence in its affairs.

Kennedy, with Secretary of State Dean Rusk by his side, conferred with Italian Premier Giovanni Leone, Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni and Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti as well as with Segni.

The Italian government specifically agreed to study the Kennedy project for a NATO nuclear force built around 25 surface ships armed with Polaris missles and manned by crews drawn from more than one nation.

This is the project that De Gaulle has turned his back on, that Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan is cool toward and that only the West Germans have shown any eagerness to accept.

Galkin and Maslennikov were named as co-conspirators but not defendants.

The FBI complaint filed in U.S. District Court in New York said that Egorov went to a "drop site" and collected a magnetic container with information about rocket launching sites on June 6. He then slipped the container to his wife who immediately concealed it in her pocketbook.

Fire Damages Lumber Mill

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore's fourth major fire in seven days sent hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of lumber up in smoke and seven firemen prostrated by heat to hospitals Tuesday.

The temperature was 92 degrees at the time of the fire in the Maryland Lumber Co. Besides seven firemen treated in hospitals, six others were given aid at a mobile unit on the scene.

Two storage sheds covering about an acre of property caught fire. Thirty-five employes in a mill were evacuated.

An automobile parked nearby was destroyed when flaming timber fell on its roof.

Fire equipment was spread out over a six-block area and succeeded in controlling the flames within an hour.

Collegians Picket Pa. Dutch Festival

KUTZTOWN, PA. (AP)—A couple of dozen young people, mostly eastern Pennsylvania collegians, picketed the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival Tuesday in protest against hospitality to visitors from Hungary and Romania.

The guests from these Iron Curtain countries were among 41 United Nations representatives from 23 counties who were entertained at the 14th annual festival, which runs through the Fourth of July week.

The pickets, describing themselves as Young Americans for Freedom, marched in orderly fashion outside the nearly 40-acre fairground in hot, humid weather. Most of them carried signs expressing their anti-communist sentiments.

Reds Hit Lodge Choice

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Kennedy's announcement that he intends to appoint Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as ambassador to South Viet Nam has brought criticism from Communist North Viet Nam.

Radio Hanoi said the appointment was a sign "the U.S. imperialists intend to pursue their designs against the South Vietnamese people, and by no means change the South Viet Nam situation."

Heat Fells Gettysburg Spectators

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—A panorama of American military muscle—from Civil War skirmishing outfits to infantry battle groups of the nuclear age—Tuesday keynoted the second day centennial observance of the Battle of Getytsburg.

Another day of blistering heat made the two-hour pageant parade Tuesday afternoon an endurance test for marcher and spectator alike.

An estimated 20,000 persons braved temperatures near 100 degrees Monday to tour the battlefield for the first day of the commemorative activities.

There were numerous reports of visitors fainting on the battlefield, and Red Cross officials reported a "busy day" at their emergency tents for victims of the sweltering heat.

About 3,000 persons turned out for the highlight of the day—the formal opening of the observance by Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and a mass tribute to the 29 states whose soldiers fought in the decisive battle.

Governors of the states or their representatives placed wreaths at the foot of the eternal light peace memorial of the battlefield.

Singer, Grid Star Wed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Jazz singer Dinah Washington married professional football star Dick (Night Train) Lane Tuesday in a surprise ceremony in Las Vegas.

It was the sixth marriage for Miss Washington, 37, and the second for Lane, 35.

Teacher Print Plan Is Vetoed

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Board of Education prohibited county boards of education Tuesday from giving state or local police personnel records or fingerprints of teachers.

The board also order the Montgomery County Board of Education to rescind its plan to give fingerprint records to county police for a check of possible criminal records of teachers or applicants for teaching jobs.

This is now done by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Montgomery County Board of Education had voted 4-3 to have county police make further checks of fingerprint records as a backstop.

The present procedures, said the state board, "are deemed entirely adequate to accomplish the purpose of gathering the required information and need no implementation, especially in view of the importance of keeping such records as private and confidential as possible."

The state board action came on a unanimous vote after more than two hours of discussion, including comments from Montgomery County officials defending their plan and spokesmen for teachers opposing it.

Charles W. Bell, chairman of the county board, said it would provide "an added ounce of protection for the children."

16 Britons Released

ADEN (UPI)—Yemen released 16 British servicemen Tuesday who had been seized by Yemeni tribesmen after straying across the border of this British protectorate.

Md. Freedom Ride Slated

NEW YORK (AP)—A Fourth of July freedom ride to Maryland for integration demonstrations was announced here Tuesday by the Campus Americans for Democratic Action.

Arthur Gorson, national chairman of CADA, said he expects more than 300 persons from the metropolitan area to participate in the ride.

He refused to disclose where the demonstrators were going.

"We are putting the entire state of Maryland on notice," he said, "that where segregation is maintained, those areas will be subject to mass demonstrations."

The organization was invited by the Baltimore Congress of Racial Equality to participate in the Maryland demonstrations, he said.

Walter South II, coordinator of the Independence Day project, said he expects the demonstrations will produce 1,000 arrests. "We are not going there to be arrested," he said, "but we are all prepared for it."

South said he sent a telegram Monday night to Gov. Tawes inviting him to lead the demonstrators in their drive to end segregation in his state.

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared Tuesday disarmament and nuclear test negotiations may be useful to the West in trying to persuade the Soviets to change their policy so that East-West tension can be reduced.

Adenauer, long reputed to be a hard-line Western leader in relations with Russia, said in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press that he would welcome "reasonable discussions" with the Soviet Union. But he warned against offering concessions unmatched by Soviet concessions of equal value.

The retiring West German government chief set forth and amplified these and other views in a long conversation in his private office in the Palais Schaumburg, where he conferred with President Kennedy a week ago.

Adenauer expressed conviction that the recently ratified French-German friendship pact, providing for periodic consultations between Bonn and Paris government chiefs, will serve the interests of all the Atlantic allies. He said it marks an end to 400 years of French-German hostility.

He declared his support for European unification in "close partnership" with the United States, thereby endorsing the main line of President Kennedy's European policy. But he emphasized his conviction that President Charles de Gaulle of France is firmly committed also to the alliance and that France forms with Germany "a firm bulwark against the threat to Europe from the East."

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Library Association will urge the Legislative Council Wednesday to recommend a state incentive fund for building libraries in the counties and Baltimore City.

The proposal was referred to the council by the 1962 legislature. It calls for local taxation to be supplemented by state money.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Room rent at Johns Hopkins Hospital has gone up $2.

The new rates are $30 a day for private room, $27 for semi-private and $26 in a ward.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Dulay Foster doubted Tuesday that Frederick A. Marburg owned a "homing automobile."

Police arrested the 33-year-old Marburg inside a tavern while outside his automobile was parked with three stolen law mowers in it. Marburg protested he had left the car two miles away.

Judge Foster ordered Marburg to serve seven years of a previous sentence on which he was on parole and tacked on another year.

United States—gave Kennedy an old time Fourth of July welcome two days ahead of time.

Almost everyone in the crowd lining the streets claimed a relative in the United States.

The Naples crowd pleased Kennedy. Members of his party said it was the most demonstrative of his whole tour. However, the Berlin turnout was considerably larger. It was estimated up to 1.5 million.

Just before he climbed into his plane, Kennedy said: "The people of Naples make us sorry to go—and happy to come back."

In the joint communique which he worked out with the Italian leaders, NATO was described as the "indispensable instrument for the consoldation of peace in freedom and security."

More importantly the document reflected the Italian government's refusal to accept De Gaulle's line that Western Europe should reduce American influence in its affairs.

Kennedy, with Secretary of State Dean Rusk by his side, conferred with Italian Premier Giovanni Leone, Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni and Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti as well as with Segni.

The Italian government specifically agreed to study the Kennedy project for a NATO nuclear force built around 25 surface ships armed with Polaris missles and manned by crews drawn from more than one nation.

This is the project that De Gaulle has turned his back on, that Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan is cool toward and that only the West Germans have shown any eagerness to accept.

Fire Damages Lumber Mill

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore's fourth major fire in seven days sent hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of lumber up in smoke and seven firemen prostrated by heat to hospitals Tuesday.

The temperature was 92 degrees at the time of the fire in the Maryland Lumber Co. Besides seven firemen treated in hospitals, six others were given aid at a mobile unit on the scene.

Two storage sheds covering about an acre of property caught fire. Thirty-five employes in a mill were evacuated.

An automobile parked nearby was destroyed when flaming timber fell on its roof.

Fire equipment was spread out over a six-block area and succeeded in controlling the flames within an hour.

Collegians Picket Pa. Dutch Festival

KUTZTOWN, PA. (AP)—A couple of dozen young people, mostly eastern Pennsylvania collegians, picketed the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival Tuesday in protest against hospitality to visitors from Hungary and Romania.

The guests from these Iron Curtain countries were among 41 United Nations representatives from 23 counties who were entertained at the 14th annual festival, which runs through the Fourth of July week.

The pickets, describing themselves as Young Americans for Freedom, marched in orderly fashion outside the nearly 40-acre fairground in hot, humid weather. Most of them carried signs expressing their anti-communist sentiments.

Reds Hit Lodge Choice

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Kennedy's announcement that he intends to appoint Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as ambassador to South Viet Nam has brought criticism from Communist North Viet Nam.

Radio Hanoi said the appointment was a sign "the U.S. imperialists intend to pursue their designs against the South Vietnamese people, and by no means change the South Viet Nam situation."

Heat Fells Gettysburg Spectators

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—A panorama of American military muscle—from Civil War skirmishing outfits to infantry battle groups of the nuclear age—Tuesday keynoted the second day centennial observance of the Battle of Getytsburg.

Another day of blistering heat made the two-hour pageant parade Tuesday afternoon an endurance test for marcher and spectator alike.

An estimated 20,000 persons braved temperatures near 100 degrees Monday to tour the battlefield for the first day of the commemorative activities.

There were numerous reports of visitors fainting on the battlefield, and Red Cross officials reported a "busy day" at their emergency tents for victims of the sweltering heat.

About 3,000 persons turned out for the highlight of the day—the formal opening of the observance by Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and a mass tribute to the 29 states whose soldiers fought in the decisive battle.

Governors of the states or their representatives placed wreaths at the foot of the eternal light peace memorial of the battlefield.

It was the sixth marriage for Miss Washington, 37, and the second for Lane, 35.

Teacher Print Plan Is Vetoed

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Board of Education prohibited county boards of education Tuesday from giving state or local police personnel records or fingerprints of teachers.

The board also order the Montgomery County Board of Education to rescind its plan to give fingerprint records to county police for a check of possible criminal records of teachers or applicants for teaching jobs.

This is now done by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Montgomery County Board of Education had voted 4-3 to have county police make further checks of fingerprint records as a backstop.

The present procedures, said the state board, "are deemed entirely adequate to accomplish the purpose of gathering the required information and need no implementation, especially in view of the importance of keeping such records as private and confidential as possible."

The state board action came on a unanimous vote after more than two hours of discussion, including comments from Montgomery County officials defending their plan and spokesmen for teachers opposing it.

Charles W. Bell, chairman of the county board, said it would provide "an added ounce of protection for the children."

16 Britons Released

ADEN (UPI)—Yemen released 16 British servicemen Tuesday who had been seized by Yemeni tribesmen after straying across the border of this British protectorate.

Md. Freedom Ride Slated

NEW YORK (AP)—A Fourth of July freedom ride to Maryland for integration demonstrations was announced here Tuesday by the Campus Americans for Democratic Action.

Arthur Gorson, national chairman of CADA, said he expects more than 300 persons from the metropolitan area to participate in the ride.

He refused to disclose where the demonstrators were going.

"We are putting the entire state of Maryland on notice," he said, "that where segregation is maintained, those areas will be subject to mass demonstrations."

The organization was invited by the Baltimore Congress of Racial Equality to participate in the Maryland demonstrations, he said.

Walter South II, coordinator of the Independence Day project, said he expects the demonstrations will produce 1,000 arrests. "We are not going there to be arrested," he said, "but we are all prepared for it."

South said he sent a telegram Monday night to Gov. Tawes inviting him to lead the demonstrators in their drive to end segregation in his state.

He Recommends Surgery ... but can you handle the expense? Regardless of your answer, you're still going to need an operation. And if you don't have adequate health care protection, the need for unexpected surgery can cause real financial problems. The solution? Blue Shield.

Here's why: Blue Shield provides all subscribers with liberal benefits for physicians' services. And for those whose annual incomes are within specified limits—up to $7,000 for a family enrolled in Plan B—participating physicians accept Blue Shield allowances as full payment for covered services. In Maryland, only Blue Shield offers such a medical-surgical paid-in-full benefit.

This explains why 750,000 Marylanders are enrolled in Blue Shield . . . and why 80,000 joined Blue Shield last year alone. Shouldn't you have Blue Shield?

Potomac Edison Seeks Reduced Heating Rate

The Potomac Edison Company filed with the Public Service Commission of Maryland a reduced electric heating rate for any general service or commercial customers to become effective July 31. The proposed rate will apply to stores, offices, motels, schools and similar commercial establishments and to any other customers who wish to take service under the rate where the entire heating requirements are supplied by electricity.

Under the proposed rate, the cost of heating with electricity will be reduced as much as 20 per cent for customers under the commercial classification.

All of a customer's electric use will be supplied under the proposed rate and the schedule of charges provides for four steps. The first step of 50 kilowatt hours is priced at 4.5 cents net per kilowatt hour. The next 300 kilowatt hours will carry a 4 cents net per kilowatt hour. The third block of 350 kilowatt hours is priced at 2.5 cents net per kilowatt hour while all usage in excess of 700 kilowatt hours will cost the customer 1.2 cents per kilowatt hour. To provide for capacity requirements, the new rate does include a provision for an adjustment of the third block of the rate when the customer requires capacity in excess of 7.5 kilowatts. The last step of the rate is identical with that made available to residential customers in the new low residential heating rate approved this past spring.

When effective, the new rate will become available to all customers served by the company in Maryland. It is anticipated that it will substantially increase interest in the use of electricity for the heating of commercial and manufacturing establishments.

The Three Days Of Gettysburg

Sidelights Of America's Greatest Drama

By JERRY KLEIN
By Central Press

John Burns, a Gettysburg resident who, though aged and crippled, entered the battle on the Union side.

GETTYSBURG — The greatest and most decisive battle fought on American soil—took place just 100 years ago.

The Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, 75,000 men, Gen. Robert E. Lee commanding, clashed with Union Gen. George G. Meade's 85,000 in a mighty death struggle in which a total of 35,000 were killed or wounded.

This series, however, deals not with the military strategy involved, but of small, half-forgotten events incident to the battle.

Gen. Robert E. Lee wrote his wife: "I trust that a merciful God, our only hope and refuge, will not desert us in this hour of need."

A Union cavalry officer who had lost his horse ran into a church filled with wounded and pretended he was a doctor. In came a Rebel officer who knew him from childhood and inquired, "Where in the devil did you study medicine?"

The Northerner thought he was about to be arrested as a prisoner, but his Confederate friend whispered, "Play your game. It's all right." That night the cavalryman rejoined his unit.

During an interval in the fighting, two young Maryland soldiers were digging a grave for the body of a young man in a tattered Confederate uniform. "Why all the fuss over a dead Rebel?" someone asked. One of the Union soldiers explained that the dead Confederate was his brother.

In town a young girl named Jennie Wade had been risking her life to carry water to the wounded lying in the streets while bullets continued to whiz. Then she began baking big batches of bread and there was a steady stream of soldiers coming to her door to ask for some.

On her second morning at the oven, a bullet whined through the kitchen door and into her heart, killing her instantly. A group of Union soldiers who had eaten Jennie's bread wrapped her in a quilt and brought a coffin that had been intended for a dead colonel.

A few days later, Jennie's fiance also was killed in battle.

The 16th Maine was so devastated by casualties that, with the consent of their officers, the regimental colorbearers tore the flags into shreds and distributed the pieces among the men. The unit entered the engagement with 298 men; came out with 66 left.

Medical teams tried to help the wounded, whatever side they belonged to. Confederate Lieutenant Oates, severely wounded, was treated by a Union physician, a Dr. Reid of the 155th Pennsylvania. Lieutenant Oates' brother, a Rebel colonel, was thankful that Dr. Reid "did all he could and sent to me by flag of truce my brother's old gold watch, his pocketbook and money."

Heavy rains followed the battle and hundreds of Rebel wounded lying on the ground near field hospitals were in real danger of drowning. Despite their own fatigue, Union soldiers carried the wounded Confederates to higher ground, sharing their coffee and crackers with them.

County Board Receives Report Concerning Roads

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received reports from Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, concerning roads complaints which were received recently by the board.

Skelly said that the request for repairs to the John Stewart Road in the eastern part of the county by F. B. Smith had resulted in a check of the roadway. The road is not in the county system, Skelly informed the board. He also said that residents on the road were given specifications in August of 1960 on how the roadway would have to be constructed before it could be included in the system. Nothing was done about this, Skelly stated.

The George Road, also in the eastern part of the county, will be treated for a dusty condition late this month or early in August, according to Skelly. The request was made by Wade Wallizer, who resides on the roadway.

A petition was received from a group of residents on the East Wilson Road near Oldtown for light surface treatment of that roadway. This was referred to Skelly.

A dust condition on First Avenue in the Triple Lakes area was cited by residents of that area. They stated that cars traveling to and from a baseball field in the area raise clouds of dust. The matter was referred to Skelly.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Entertaining Attitude

"I'm happy to see how beautifully this new generation of young marrieds entertains," a young grandmother remarked to me recently. "Everything always goes smoothly no matter what the limitations of close quarters and limited supplies are — and everyone has such a good time!

"Now this seems to me to be quite different from what it was just a few years ago, and it certainly is very different from when I was a bride. I was disturbed for a while at a too-casual attitude about guests. Young people invited each other without making enough of the preparations courtesy calls for, and food and serving were sometimes little better than slipshod.

"Then, longer ago, we went to such lengths to impress our guests when we did entertain that we couldn't possibly manage to do it often. It's so much nicer the way things are now. The young hostess plans well but sensibly within the possibilities she has. She has ideas and is willing to put real thought and effort into a party, but she knows better than to overdo it.

"Her husband helps her give the best party the two of them can give without denting the budget or wearing themselves to a frazzle. I've seen some delightful results where ideas counted more than money, and real thoughtfulness counted more than space and fine party equipment. Good for these young hostesses! They know how to please and enjoy their friends."

Since there's nothing more charming than a woman playing her hostess role easily and gracefully, I think the lady who had this to say was paying today's young women a wonderful compliment on their charm.

Members discussed improvements to be made to the recently leased grounds on Eastman Road; putting up a permanent show ring and building a fence around the ring. It also voted to purchase a canopy tent for the club grounds.

Five new members were accepted and Mr. and Mrs. Edward King, from whom the new club grounds were leased, were voted honorary members. The other new members are Miss Judy Brodbeck, Thomas Krogel, both of Cumberland; Mrs. Paddleford, Cresaptown; Robert Tichnell, McCoole, and Mrs. Ora Fint, Lonaconing.

It was decided to have the next regular meeting in the form of a "box social" at the new club grounds, on August 5.

City Marbles Champ Given Bicycle

The man responsible doesn't want his name used, but he made Louis Harris, 11, Cumberland's marbles champion, a mighty happy boy Monday.

For Louis got on the anonymous donor the bicycle he had hoped to win in the National Marbles Tournament last week when he compiled the best record ever by a Cumberland champion, finishing sixth in the nation. But at the Wildwood By The Sea, N. J., finals, only the top four placers got bicycles which was what Louis wanted most of all.

Louis' desire was publicized in "Byrd's Eye View" a column in The Sunday Times, and initial contact was made by the donor. Meanwhile, the Recreation Department had received $12 toward the purchase of a bicycle.

The donor bought the bicycle and the $12 was used to provide accessories. The bright red vehicle was purchased and arrangements made to surprise the young champion.

Monday afternoon he got his surprise.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director who accompanied him to Wildwood and describes the youngster as "one of the quietest, best-behaved I have ever known," arranged to have young Harris and his mother, Mrs. William Harris, come to City Hall obstensibly to see movies of the marbles tourney.

Prior to his arrival for the movies, shown in the City Hall Council Chamber, a string had been tied to a chair in the chamber and to the bicycle which was parked outside the chamber at the rear.

When the movies were over, Louis was told to follow the string. When he saw his prize, the serious-minded young champ showed as much emotion at that particular moment as he did during the entire pressure-packed tournament at Wildwood.

Louis, a student at Virginia Avenue School, resides at 919 Glenmore Street.

When he arrived home after the tourney a week ago, Mason recalls he was "a tired young man" who said he was so sleepy that his family would have to wait until the next day to hear about his adventures.

"When we drove up in front of his house, the only person in sight was a boy sitting on a porch across the street. When I stopped in front of Louis' house, the boy yelled 'Louie's home,' and before I could get the motor turned off about 25 children were surrounding us, shaking Louis' hand and patting him on the back.

"When his parents took us into the house there was a sign 'Welcome Home, Champ,' on the wall."

Also attending the presentation were Louis' younger brother, Mike; Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant recreation director; and Mrs. Donaldlyn Shircliffe, department secretary.

Local Campers Visit Park At Yellowstone

The Cumberland Campers, who left the Queen City June 28 for a 7,500-mile camping trip to the West Coast, were scheduled to tour Yellowstone National Park yesterday.

Miss Maria Ebert, one of the students making the trip, wrote relating some of their experiences thus far.

Miss Ebert said: "While in Chicago the first day we visited the aquarium and the Museum of National History. Some of us were a little uncomfortable during the 320-mile drive to Boone, Iowa the following day.

"However, we enjoyed camping at Camp Lodges and had a good swim at Lake Andes in South Dakota.

"I think everyone is having a great time."

The tour group, under the direction of Victor McKay, is scheduled to arrive on the West Coast today and over the weekend will visit the space needle in Seattle before heading for a tour along the Pacific Ocean.

$1,700,000 Invested In County Banks

Commissioner Robert Little Ebert reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday on the investment of $1,700,000 of county tax funds in county banks and with the U.S. Treasury.

All banks in the county were invited to participate in the program, Ebert said, and five institutions accepted.

A total of $300,000 was placed in the First-Second National Bank and Trust Company and the Liberty Trust Company with each receiving $150,000 of the county funds for six months.

Each of the five banks which also included the Cumberland Savings Bank, Frostburg National Bank and Fidelity Savings Bank, received $100,000 each for seven months.

Of the $700,000 invested for nine months the First-Second National Bank and Trust Company received $200,000 and the Liberty Trust Company the same amount. The other banks are participating at the rate of $100,000 each.

An additional $200,000 is being invested in short-term U.S. Treasury obligations for a three-month period.

The banks will pay three per cent per annum on the funds invested with them by the county. The banks have pledged Treasury bonds to secure these deposits.

Bank Makes Promotions

Two promotions were announced yesterday at the Grantsville office of the Liberty Trust Company.

Robert Durst was named assistant vice president and manager and Mrs. Ruth Newman was appointed assistant secretary.

Durst was formerly assistant secretary and succeeds Luther Huff in the new capacity.

Durst and Mrs. Newman were formerly associates of the First State Bank of Grantsville, the former since 1955 and the latter since 1946.

At the time the First State Bank and Liberty Trust Company consolidated in 1960 both continued with the Grantsville office. Durst has been active in local banking circles and currently is serving as president of the Cumberland Conference of the National Association of Bank Auditors and Controllers.

Durst and his family maintain their residence in Salisbury, Pa., while Mrs. Newman and her family are residents of Grantsville.

Mining is one of man's oldest industries. Some eight thousand workers, for instance, were once employed in the sixth millennium B. C., in copper and turquoise mines in the Sinai Peninsula.

The ever-growing problem of the aging in this country is pointed up by tabulations which show there are 17 million persons over 65, or about one in 10. In 1900 there were three million, or about one in 25.

Week's Food Economies

The Fourth of July means a long weekend and folks will be shopping for food to take on trips, to entertain guests, for picnics and outdoor cooking as well as regular table fare, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economists at the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland.

For variety and balance the outdoor meal should be no different than a meal you place on the table. Plan it to include the basics, meat, vegetables, salad, bread beverage and dessert. Three or four kinds of food are enough. Do not make the mistake of making the preparation too big.

Eggs and chicken continue to be attractively priced. Eggs need no introduction to picnics and cookouts as deviled and hard-cooked eggs. Chicken lends itself to frying, barbecue or grilling, as well as the usual indoor cooking methods. Allow plenty of time for thorough cooking for the best flavor to be brought out in the chicken.

Ground beef ranks high for cook-outs because it is to prepare, lends itself to a wide variety of flavor combinations, and is economical. An egg added to the ground beef will help hold the meat together, making it easier to handle in cooking.

The popular hot dog or frankfurter can be counted upon for outdoor cookery as a tasty meat which needs very little preparation.

Local offerings of green beans and cabbage are in adequate supply. Make full use of these two vegetables from the list of best buys.

Florida and North Carolina sweet corn is in abundance.

Finger vegetables like carrot strips, green pepper slices, onion rings, can be served alone or in combination. Lettuce and tomatoes are on the best buy list as a base for salads.

The supply of fruits is increasing. Peaches from Georgia are moving in volume. Some few shipments are coming from South Carolina. Watermelons, picnics and Fourth of July are all spoken of in one breath. Florida watermelons are in volume. The best test for ripeness is cutting or plugging. Cantaloupe from the Western and Southern growing areas are forming the bulk of these melons on the market.

Ceremony Marks Change Of Name Of College

The hopes of a university for Western Maryland provided the theme for speakers Monday during a ceremony in Frostburg which formally marked the transition of Frostburg State Teachers College to Frostburg State College.

Monday was the effective date for four of the state's five Teachers Colleges to drop the "Teachers" designation in their name, thus opening the door for these colleges to become liberal arts colleges, or "multi-purpose" institutions.

Speakers during Monday's ceremonies in front of Lowndes Hall, the college's administration building, were former college presidents John L. Dunkle and Miss Lillian C. Compton, President R. Bowen Hardesty, and Dean Ivan C. Diehl. A recorded message from William L. Wilson Jr., vice president of the Board of Trustees, was played.

Wilson brought to the attention of the public his "keen interest in the establishment of a university in Frostburg."

Wilson went on to say that he has worked consistently for the growth of Frostburg State College and sees "a university in the years ahead."

Dunkle, president of the college from 1923 to 1945, stressed the effects of the population explosion whereby "we will have to step fast in higher education to cope with the oncoming enrollments."

He expressed confidence that state officials will provide for Frostburg State College the facilities for an enrollment of 5,000 by 1973.

Miss Compton, president from 1945 to 1954, indicated her interest in the growth of the college and in the thorough preparation for the transisition to a state college by way of curriculum, excellence in instruction, and "quality education."

Diehl, dean of academic affairs, geography instructor and dean since 1927, remarked that "today's demonstrated enthusiasm should serve as a kindling spark and inspiration to forge ahead for the complete fulfillment of the dream — a state university, Western Maryland's own."

"This should be the reward for Western Maryland's progress in all fields of endeavor, industrial, economic, intellectual and cultural. Western Maryland has earned it, deserves it, and should have it," the dean asserted.

Hardesty remarked, "Even though we are changing from Teachers College to State College, we are already considering the next step, a university of our own."

He continued that "we can afford nothing less than scholarship and a prestige institution.

"The faculty and administration dedicate themselves to serving young people pursuing liberal arts and teacher education. We also dedicate ourselves to serving industry in this area," the president concluded.

Fishing Hole Plan Approved By Park Unit

Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C&O Canal property for the National Park Service, has written Commissioner Russell Carder that the plan suggested for diverting the waters of Blue Spring into the canal just south of Cumberland is an excellent one.

Carder wrote Dale to ask for his advice and assistance in the effort to obtain the proposed fishing hole. The Blue Springs plan was approved by the county commissioners several weeks ago and Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said the State Game and Inland Fish Commission would assist with engineering plans.

Dale said that he plans to have a number of men in the Park Service design section to come to Cumberland and view the site of the proposed fishing hole and at that time he would confer with Carder, Albert S. Paye, county engineer, Minke and the state game agency engineering group.

The area from the Blue Springs, which is located on the banks of the Potomac River, to the next canal lock area is about eight or nine miles. The springs would provide fresh limestone water for filling the canal bed and this would make excellent water for the fishing hole, Minke told the board recently.

Railroad Gets Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission agreed Monday to guarantee a $30 million loan to the Reading Railroad. Some of the money will be used to buy 56 new diesel engines.

Surpluses of feed grains and wheat, the two most troublesome commodities of the 1950s, are going down, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. By the mid-1960s, these surpluses should disappear.

City Marbles Champ Given Bicycle

The man responsible doesn't want his name used, but he made Louis Harris, 11, Cumberland's marbles champion, a mighty happy boy Monday.

For Louis got on the anonymous donor the bicycle he had hoped to win in the National Marbles Tournament last week when he compiled the best record ever by a Cumberland champion, finishing sixth in the nation. But at the Wildwood By The Sea, N. J., finals, only the top four placers got bicycles which was what Louis wanted most of all.

Louis' desire was publicized in "Byrd's Eye View" a column in The Sunday Times, and initial contact was made by the donor. Meanwhile, the Recreation Department had received $12 toward the purchase of a bicycle.

The donor bought the bicycle and the $12 was used to provide accessories. The bright red vehicle was purchased and arrangements made to surprise the young champion.

Monday afternoon he got his surprise.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director who accompanied him to Wildwood and describes the youngster as "one of the quietest, best-behaved I have ever known," arranged to have young Harris and his mother, Mrs. William Harris, come to City Hall obstensibly to see movies of the marbles tourney.

Prior to his arrival for the movies, shown in the City Hall Council Chamber, a string had been tied to a chair in the chamber and to the bicycle which was parked outside the chamber at the rear.

When the movies were over, Louis was told to follow the string. When he saw his prize, the serious-minded young champ showed as much emotion at that particular moment as he did during the entire pressure-packed tournament at Wildwood.

Louis, a student at Virginia Avenue School, resides at 919 Glenmore Street.

When he arrived home after the tourney a week ago, Mason recalls he was "a tired young man" who said he was so sleepy that his family would have to wait until the next day to hear about his adventures.

"When we drove up in front of his house, the only person in sight was a boy sitting on a porch across the street. When I stopped in front of Louis' house, the boy yelled 'Louie's home,' and before I could get the motor turned off about 25 children were surrounding us, shaking Louis' hand and patting him on the back.

"When his parents took us into the house there was a sign 'Welcome Home, Champ,' on the wall."

Also attending the presentation were Louis' younger brother, Mike; Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant recreation director; and Mrs. Donaldlyn Shircliffe, department secretary.

Opening lead: Eight of ♣

A skillfully contrived end play in trumps enabled the declarer to salvage a small slam contract in today's hand which the quirks of adverse distribution had seemingly consigned to defeat.

North was confronted with a slight problem on his rebid. Altho it is a bit unusual to make a jump preference with only three trumps, the alternative call of two hearts did not appear to be particularly appealing. South had well above a minimum opening bid, so he took this opportunity to cue bid the ace of hearts. When North coöperated by announcing second round control of the suit, South contracted for a small slam in spades.

West led the eight of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer led a heart to his ace in order to play a small spade. West followed with the five of spades and the queen was put up from the North hand. When East followed with the jack, it appeared that South would lose two trump tricks, for West was clearly marked with the doubly guarded king of spades behind declarer's ace-ten.

South's only chance was to execute an end play on his left hand opponent by stripping out the side suits and then throwing West into the lead. To do so profitably, he must guess his opponent's distribution.

Declarer's first move was to cash North's ace of diamonds followed by the ruff of a club in his hand. The king of diamonds was played and a diamond trumped in dummy as West's queen fell. Another club ruff dropped the queen of that suit and, if West was to be taken at his word, the latter was apparently marked with three hearts. Proceeding on this assumption, South cashed two more hearts. He was rewarded when West followed to both leads.

Declarer led his last diamond and West, who was down to nothing but spades, was obliged to ruff and then lead away from his king-nine of trumps into South's ace-ten.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There's an unwritten law in our office that when a married woman becomes pregnant she leaves before her fifth month. There's no rule for the unmarried ones because you just don't expect it to happen to them.

It did happen, however, to a secretary in her 30s and this is what I'm writing about. She remained silent about her condition and continued to work though anyone could see she was expecting a child. She didn't wear maternity clothes, but kept to skirts and blouses in large sizes. When she became enormous the office manager asked her to take a leave of absence. Seven weeks later her baby was born.

Three weeks have passed and the woman is back at work. She's about 35 pounds lighter, and acts as if everything is just ginger-peachy.

We don't know if she has released the child for adoption or what. She hasn't said one word about what happened. We feel her behavior is outrageous and would like your advice on how to treat her.—WE GIRLS

DEAR GIRLS: Treat her exactly as YOU would like to be treated if the same thing had happened to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We live next door to a family which has five children. They range from 12 years of age down to three. Our children who are 11 and 9 would rather be next door than home. They want to sleep there, eat there and are often included in outings and excursions with the neighbor's children.

I have told the mother repeatedly that I feel guilty, adding the burden of our two to her five, but she assures me she doesn't mind since our children are "a pleasure to have around."

I fear, however, that the warm relationship is creating a delicate problem — religion. Our children are becoming more than casually interested in the religion of the family next door. My husband is afraid they may want to change.

We have permitted our youngsters to go to church with the neighbors and they are fascinated with the ritual. Any advice? —B.B.C.

DEAR B.B.C.: And what is the spiritual climate in your home? Do you and your husband take your children to worship? Do they attend Sunday School?

If a child's spiritual needs are not satisfied at home it is not surprising that he would look elsewhere. I suspect you have been derelict in your duty and now the neighbors' religion is filling the vacuum. Get busy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter who is 21 will be a November bride. Please help me with this headstrong girl.

Miriam has a wealth of chestnut brown hair with beautiful auburn highlights. Last year she had it chopped off and is now wearing a boy-bob. It looks simply atrocious. I can't figure out why she did it. Miriam's hair has always been her best feature. She has a prominent nose and her chin is not strong.

Yesterday we went to look at wedding gowns and veils. When she tried on the crowns and caps I was sick. The girl looks like a monkey. When I told her she desperately needed hair to frame her face she insisted I was old-fashioned and that the cropped look is "in." If I send her picture will you please be on my side and say so? She won't listen to me but she WILL listen to you. —NEED AN ALLY

DEAR NEED: Don't send the picture. I can visualize the problem. Only a beautiful face can afford the luxury of chopping off magnificent hair. Most women need hair to soften their features.

A wedding crown on a boy-bob is not very "in" no matter how you look at it. I'm with you, mother.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED ABOUT HIM: Only 12 years old and already a practicing psychiatrist? My advice is to leave his psyche alone or he may identify you with a symbol of "nosiness." Just continue to be friendly and kind and stop playing doctor.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead: Eight of ♣

A skillfully contrived end play in trumps enabled the declarer to salvage a small slam contract in today's hand which the quirks of adverse distribution had seemingly consigned to defeat.

North was confronted with a slight problem on his rebid. Altho it is a bit unusual to make a jump preference with only three trumps, the alternative call of two hearts did not appear to be particularly appealing. South had well above a minimum opening bid, so he took this opportunity to cue bid the ace of hearts. When North coöperated by announcing second round control of the suit, South contracted for a small slam in spades.

West led the eight of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer led a heart to his ace in order to play a small spade. West followed with the five of spades and the queen was put up from the North hand. When East followed with the jack, it appeared that South would lose two trump tricks, for West was clearly marked with the doubly guarded king of spades behind declarer's ace-ten.

South's only chance was to execute an end play on his left hand opponent by stripping out the side suits and then throwing West into the lead. To do so profitably, he must guess his opponent's distribution.

Declarer's first move was to cash North's ace of diamonds followed by the ruff of a club in his hand. The king of diamonds was played and a diamond trumped in dummy as West's queen fell. Another club ruff dropped the queen of that suit and, if West was to be taken at his word, the latter was apparently marked with three hearts. Proceeding on this assumption, South cashed two more hearts. He was rewarded when West followed to both leads.

Declarer led his last diamond and West, who was down to nothing but spades, was obliged to ruff and then lead away from his king-nine of trumps into South's ace-ten.

Culture, Cash And The Government

Official patronage of the arts in Europe is a tradition reaching back to the Renaissance. Ours is a different tradition, which assigns responsibility to private wealth.

But private wealth isn't as immune to the taxgatherer as it used to be. Result: a demand for more government support. So there is a cultural coordinator on the President's staff and a Federal Advisory Council on the Arts upcoming.

A view of what the government's role should be is offered in a report by August Heckscher, retiring as the cultural coordinator. He is concerned not only about what the government should do for the arts, but what it is doing to them.

His report to the President is critical of the fact that responsibility for Washington's aesthetic development is divided among seven agencies, and of the "false grandeur" that characterizes so much capital architecture. And, of course, he favors more federal spending on the arts.

But his main point is that individual creativity and private support must be the basic elements in artistic development. This position may not satisfy those whose demands for government subsidies are more expansive.

But it will make sense to taxpayers who believe high cultural standards and spending more millions are not necessarily inseparable.

These Days

Plowing Farmer Under

Partisans of the welfare legislation of the past thirty years invariably try to rule their opponents out of court as reputable witnesses by stigmatizing them as heartless, selfish and inhumane. But welfare legislation, which very often fails to produce the effect that is intended, frequently operates in practice in a way that makes life in the jungle seem cordial by contrast.

The inhumanity of our agricultural support program, for example, is demonstrated any time that a statistician looks at what has happened to milions of farmers since the creation of the first Triple A in the nineteen thirties. The excuse for the original New Deal agricultural laws was that they were needed to protect the family farm, particularly the small farm with the high mortgage. But on the farm, as elsewhere, "them as has, gits" and when the government goes into the business of subsidizing the farmer on the basis of a fair percentage of his produce, the more affluent operator "gits" the most.

The New Deal, in failing to establish a top cut-off point for total parity benefit payments to an individual farmer, made it inevitable that the rich agriculturalist, the one who could afford to combine the most machinery with his manpower, would really make a good thing out of the state support of his effort. The poorer farmer, struggling to get a cotton crop, say, out of his forty acres and a mule, could not produce enough on his government acreage allotment to command a decent support loan. Thus he never could afford to buy a tractor and more land.

The mills of the gods have been grinding slowly since the days of the pioneer Triple A. But they have been grinding exceedingly fine. Edward Higbee, a land utilization expert from the University of Rhode Island who recently completed a study of farm trends for the Twentieth Century Fund, is positively devilish in his assembly of statistics bearing on the human erosion of the past thirty years on the farm front. In 1935, when Henry Wallace, Rexford Tugwell and other knights errant of the New Deal were galloping forth to save the farmer, there were 6.8 million farm units in the United States. In 1961 there were only 3.7 million. This means that more than three million farm families have had to quit the soil despite the billions in subsidy money lavished on American agriculture.

How could there have been so much human attrition in an era that has been dominated by the welfarist mind? Looking back on the record, it becomes obvious that nobody ever had any real desire to institute a humane program for the small farmer.

Every bit of farm legislation for three decades has made it less an less profitable to use crude labor power in the fields, barns and feeding lots of the U. S. With acreage allotments limited, the farmer with the most efficient machinery and the lowest total labor costs per bushel could obviously make the most money out of the support program.

True enough, the industrial revolution in agriculture would work to eliminate the small, inefficient family farm in any event. But thirty years of offering premiums for use of machinery, fertilizer and gentic science have speeded up the process. The small, relatively inefficient farmer has had less time than he might normally have counted on to find something more suited to his talents. He has been thrown, willy-nilly, on the city before new urban industries have had the opportunity to absorb him.

The whole cruel impact of the operation is apparent when you look at a city like Washington, D. C., which is filled with Negro refugees from the South who could not make out as farmers with only their muscles and a mule to raise a crop.

True enough, if the small farmer had had the instinct of the European peasant, he might have made out. A couple of weeks ago I drove through the Amish country of Pennsylvania, that smiling stretch of rolling land between Lancaster and Morgantown. The Amish, to judge by everything you see, are still proving to the world that a farmer can make a living if he devotes most of his time, and hard personal labor, to feeding himself and his family out of garden produce. The Amish still refuse to waste money on gasoline or expensive machinery. But they live like peasants — and this has never appealed to the average American farmer.

Some Political Questions Remain Unanswered In TFX Contract Probe

Editor's Note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson.

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—A suggestion to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee—before you close the books on your protracted probe of the TFX contract, here are some important leads your investigators have overlooked. They pertain chiefly to the fact that Grumman Aircraft is a vital partner in the General Dynamics TFX contract and Grumman's close liaison with the Democratic Party.

This does not mean to exclude General Dynamics from political motivation. They have used politics and lured ex-Pentagon officials as much or more than any company. But in a contract running into $6 billions, they are subcontractors, and long before the TFX contract was let, one Pentagon general told this column, "Grumman is the company to watch."

To be specific, here are some leads which your Senate probers might run down:

Lead No. 1 — Jack Rettaliata, vice president of Grumman, had a private session at the exclusive "Q Club" in the famous Carroll Arms Hotel on Sept. 26, which was two months before the TFX contract was signed.

When questioned by this column, Rettaliata swears he can't remember who was present, but it's reported that John English, Democratic chairman for Nassau County, N. Y., where Grumman is located, together with Matty Matthews, chief money raiser for the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, were present, together with one official from the Pentagon.

Lead No. 2—Matty Matthews was formerly on Grumman's payroll before he came to work for the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee. He has put Rettaliata in frequent touch with Vice President Johnson's office, specifically with Walter Jenkins, his assistant. Jenkins, when questioned, said that Rettaliata's visits and phone calls had dealt with the Gulfstream airplane, a sleek executive jet manufactured by Grumman which has been put at the disposal of leading Democrats.

Jenkins emphasized that Vice President Johnson had taken no free rides in Gulfstreams, but when this writer talked to Rettaliato he admitted that Grumman had furnished the Vice President with a "demonstration plane."

Lead No. 3—Before the TFX contract was awarded, the President's brother, Senator Teddy, spoke to Rettaliata and other Grumman officials about placing more sub-contracts in Massachusetts. When I asked Rettaliata whether Grumman would do what the Senator from Massachusetts asked, he replied:

"It would be hard to avoid the area."

Lead No? 4—Whether Vice President Johnson intervened in the TFX contract on behalf of General Dynamics-Grumman is a matter of dispute. The Air Force states that Secretary of the Air Force, Eugene Zuckert, had received an inquiry from Johnson regarding the status of the contract, but the Vice President, when queried, told me emphatically: "Zuckert's memory is faulty. I kept completely out of the TFX negotiations."

Lead No. 5—Mystery surrounds the reported $50,000 worth of tickets allegedly purchased by Grumman officials and their friends for the $1,000 a plate dinner for President Kennedy last January. This took place two months after the award of the TFX contract.

Rettaliata told me that he had no knowledge of any such fund raising for the Democrats. However, a letter signed by Rettaliata has now come to light urging Grumman subcontractors to buy advertisements in the Nassau County Democrats' Journal to be distributed at the local $100 a plate dinner.

It is also known that Rettaliata called occasionally on Dick McGuire, President Kennedy's key man on the Democratic National Committee. This column tried for ten days to get McGuire's comment on this, but he refused to return the call.

The Democratic National Committee has also refused to divulge the names of the contributors who bought tickets to the gala $1,000 dinner, where President Kennedy shook hands personally with Democrats in the dough.

"This is a matter between ourselves and the people who came," said Democratic press chief Sam Brightman, when asked for the names.

These are leads which this column has done its best to check out, but not having the power of subpoena, as do Senate investigators, we have about reached the end of the road.

Politics Vs Judgment

This column has previously noted that civilian Pentagon chiefs have a right to award a contract according to the economics of the nation, and previous Republican administrations did award contracts on the basis of helping companies in financial difficulties. This was the case with General Dynamics which had lost around $400,000,000 last year while Boeing had received twelve billions in government orders in ten years.

We do not believe Secretary of Defense McNamara let politics influence his judgment.

However, it remains a fact that Henry Crown, head of General Dynamics, is one of the most politically motivated executives in the country. His rise to be one of the wealthiest men in the world was originally due to a political in with the city bosses of Chicago.

If either General Dynamics or Grumman is playing politics with the TFX contract, or if some politicians are milking the TFX contract for campaign contributions, in either case, the public is entitled to know about it. This column covered the contributions which Len Hall, then Republican National Chairman milked out of the Frederick H. Snare Company in connection with the Nicaro government contract, and under a Democratic Administration it's fair to cover the same.

Shift In Expert Opinion On Sino-Soviet Break

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

On Friday of this week, another temporary patch-up of the bitter dispute between the Soviet and Chinese Communists was supposed to begin in Moscow, at the scheduled Sino-Russian meeting to discuss differences.

Only a month or so ago, this was the all-but-unanimous forecast of the leading students of the Communist branch of demonology. With a true embarrassment of riches to choose from, both the Chinese and Soviet parties had already named their most thoroughly nasty high personages as their negotiators at the Moscow meeting. But despite this negative sign, a patch-up was still expected.

Today, in sharp contrast, the expert forecast is no patch-up, and probably a final break between the two chief Communist parties of the world. This great shift in expert opinion is important in itself, since the Communist-demonologists are influential counselors of every Western government.

The reasons for the shift are compelling. (They had to be compelling, for the experts loathe changing their minds.) First of all, the Chinese have broken all previous records with a vicious denunciation of Nikita S. Khrushchev and all his works, published less than a fortnight before the supposed "reconciliation" meeting.

For the first time, therefore, the Western experts have been reluctantly driven to conclude that the Chinese Communist leaders actively desire a final break with Moscow — although a break which can be blamed on Moscow if possible. The old view, that the sacred unity of the Communist bloc must dominate the decision-making of both sides, is therefore out the window at last.

The Soviets, meanwhile, have shown not the smallest sign of giving way to the Chinese. On the contrary, they have now let it be known that at the recent clean-up of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, "the slanderous attack" of the Chinese "forced" the three eminent hard-noses who are supposed to meet with the Chinese, Suslov, Andropov, and Ponomarev, to speak their minds about Peking in no uncertain terms.

At this writing, it is far from clear that, if one of the two parties to the row actively desires a final break, a break will quite unavoidably take place sooner or later. It is sure to come eventually, unless Mao Tse-tung dies, or Khrushchev dies, or some other vast change alters the whole equation.

It is time, therefore, to think about the character of the new world-pattern that is likely to be produced by such a transforming event. With due respect, the best way to envision the effects of a final break between the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties is to recall the great church-divisions, which took place when the Patriarch of Constantinope proclaimed his independence of the Bishop of Rome, and when Martin Luther nailed his theses to the church door at Wittenberg.

This break will have some of the character of both of these rifts in the church. In other words, there will be a basic territorial division, like the ancient division between the Eastern and Western Churches. The Chinese Communists have already gained the adherence of all the other Oriental Communist parties except the North Vietnamese, who will almost certainly have to follow Peking when the moment of crises arrives.

But in addition, this break will put Moscow on the defensive, just as the Protestant Reformation put the Vatican on the defensive in its first stage. This is because the Chinese have chosen for themselves the more militant, uncompromising, angry, and revolutionary role.

To be sure, Moscow holds most of the trumps in most of the Communist parties outside Asia. A careful survey made in the State Department at the behest of Gov. Averill Harriman reveals no non-Asian parties except those in Albania, New Zealand, and probably Venezuela, in which the Chinese faction has a clear majority.

Furthermore, the parties in which the Chinese factions are even strong enough to cause serious trouble are limited to those in Mexico, Brazil, and Ecuador, the Scandinavian countries with special emphasis on Norway, and just possibly Great Britain.

The Muscovites have already expelled the pro-Chinese in the Belgian and Australian parties, and in India they have handed the pro-Chinese brethren over to Nehru's police. When the break comes, expulsions of Chinese factions are bound to follow in many other Communist parties all over the world.

Yet mere expulsions will not tidy things up, by a long chalk. The dreary, rigid, tradition-bound Moscovite parties will then have to compete with new, violence-drunken, pro-Chinese parties, claiming to expound the true scripture and calling all and sundry to revolution tomorrow. Moscow has bought the loyalty of Fidel Castro at a high price, in preparation for the break that now looms, but the example of Castro is still the one the Chinese will point to, after their own supreme example.

In sum, this great event will offer opportunities to the West, but it is also pretty likely to create grave problems.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WHO WON?—Before President Kennedy announced that he would not re-appoint Adm. George W. Anderson to a second two-year term as Chief of Naval Operations, Anderson and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara were having differences.

Anderson wanted Adm. H. Page Smith appointed to the key post of over-all Atlantic commander. McNamara favored Vice Adm. David L. McDonald. Shortly after Kennedy's announcement, Anderson won a somewhat Pyrrhic victory. Smith, his man, got the Atlantic job. But we really suppose that it was with McNamara's consent inasmuch as McDonald was named to succeed Anderson as CNO.

BEST-SELLER SEQUEL — A while ago, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, found that among the Government Printing Office's "best-seller" publications was pamphlet No. F2131, titled "How to Raise Rabbits."

Senator Young is somewhat impatient with the subject matter chosen for many government publications, and he cited this one as a horrible example of things government departments should not be occupying their time with.

In a further comment on the pamphlet, Young remarked, "We might wonder does the Public Printer also offer for sale a booklet, 'How to Stop Raising Rabbits'. This often is the principal concern following the time a person learns how to raise them."

Accident Toll High In Children Under 15

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Children under age 15 constitute 40 per cent of the total population. Accidents are the largest single cause of death in this age group. Three times as many die in this way as from cancer and almost four times as many as from congential defects. Accidents kill more boys and girls than the four leading fatal diseases combined.

Almost 60 per cent of the total number of mishaps occur at home. This is understandable because youngsters are inquisitive and learn by exploration, sampling, questioning, imitating, and by trial and error methods. Need we say more?

There is no sense in denying the existence of hazards in the home. They are there, and passive protection of the smallfry is not enough. According to Dr. Jay M. Arena, adults make two mistakes when it comes to accident prevention. They credit the tyke with more intelligence than he possesses or assume he is able to think for himself.

Toddlers must explore the entire house or apartment. They want to see, hold, touch, or taste everything. They love to open boxes, climb here and there, and pull whatever is in sight. They are too young to recognize danger and the wise mother puts all knick-knacks out of reach and keeps poisons and small objects out of sight or behind locked doors. Accident prevention at this age is the parents' responsibility.

With growth and development, the little one must be taught how to deal with normal perils of the world in which he lives, and how to distinguish between the dangerous and the safe. The basic approach centers about the discipline of obedience, which must be stressed over and over again. This is easier when the parents understand the different stages of development.

Injuries are more likely to occur before meals, at bedtime, or during overactivity. The same applies to sudden changes in environment, as in moving or at vacation time; or when mother is ill, too busy, or has her attention diverted by sickness in other members of the family. These are the additional family strains that contribute to the high accident toll in children.

TIRED MOTHER

Mrs. J. A. writes: I have nine children and am expecting the tenth. I am 32 years of age and feel weak and rundown all the time. Do you think having children so fast is causing this trouble?

REPLY

I suspect your weakness comes from taking care of rather than bearing so many children.

STONY LUNGS

A. E. writes: What is meant by calcification of a lung lesion?

REPLY

Some lung lesions turn to stone after they heal. Calcium is deposited in the scar tissue until it becomes as hard as rock.

REPLY

Heavens forbid. If this were true, most of us would be dead by now.

In the neck. A large goiter may press on the windpipe, but rarely on the throat.

No, but it may help individuals who spend too much time thinking about themselves.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An American tourist, arriving at Paris Orly Airport for his first visit abroad, stopped at the restaurant near the customs counter for a bite of breakfast. What an opportunity to try out the French he had studied so laboriously from a set of phonograph records! He hailed a waiter and nervously ordered "Oeufs! Oeufs! (Eggs! Eggs!) The waiter regarded him in disbelief, so again the American cried "Oeufs! Oeufs!"

This time the waiter permitted himself the suspicion of a smile and, in perfect English, said to the tourist, "If you'll stop barking at me, sir, I'll be happy to take your order."

Eric Newby, a major figure in England's textile trade, recalls that when he wrote a book some time ago, his London publishers, Secker and Warburg, occupied a building that had been severely damaged by a bomb during World War II. A crack running from top to bottom made every employe apprehensive, and the first query of all callers was, "How's the crack today?" The expected collapse finally came. The head of the firm had just picked up the phone and ordered, "Get me New York" when a whole ceiling fell on his head. When they dug him out, he was still clutching the phone, bellowing, "What's the delay on my overseas call?"

The Shrewsbury is flat and fast this afternoon. Little spearing leap in silvery parabola as the big stripers prowl for hors d'oeuvres. On the far shore, the slender spire of a church lifts its cross above the trees. In front of the old house, thousands of petunias lift their heads in pink and lavender and white to listen to the gurgle of the fountain.

A tired breeze plays roulette with the leaves on the pin oaks. A housefly walks aimlessly up and down the outside of a screen, trying to find a way in. A wood spider, inside the screen, runs up and down in spurts, trying to find a way out. Rocky dozes under an air conditioner; only the ears are awake.

The thermometer stands at 84. The pale blue haze of summer is here. A boat comes back from the sea and a man stands at the taffrail cleaning bluefish. Sea gulls swoop low in the wake like train bearers at a wedding. A red canvas deckchair sits fading in the sun. The children are on the backyard swings and Karen falls. She is too old, at 10, to cry, and too young to swallow the pain. The tears fall in silence. A black bird with orange wings sits on the edge of the fountain. The head darts in several directions. She sees the sparkle of the cool water and drinks first, then squats in it and bathes, hula style. Little unwanted weeds grow between the colored flagstones, each one at the mercy of passing feet, each afraid to be taller than the others.

Gayle aims the garden hose at her car — third time in a week. She looks up at a yellow helicopter, standing still in the sky. In it is Jack Sullivan, chairman of the State Boating Commission. A fisherman in chest-high boots stands in the surf across the street and casts a hooked shrimp into the high lazy green breakers.

My father sits in the dining room, watching his Yankees. The twins, Robin and Pamela, almost five, sit on the floor rolling pool balls at each other and shrieking when they collide in mid-flight. A white crane stands like a statue in green swale. Two pale girls in black bathing suits tread the hot sand in painful ballet.

The Hi-Fi set soothes the ears with a complicated bolero. Gray smoke lifts listlessly from the trash barrel in the back yard. The bridge tender stirs himself to let a graceful sloop through. Old moss paints a border of green along the bottom of the red dock. The Ship Ahoy sports a necklace of coach lights across the front of the beach club.

In the haze, the liner United States pauses to drop a pilot, then digs her heels into the green sea to speed to Europe. A baby green snake slithers to a stop beside the sea wall, lost. Bright sun comes through the pressed butterflies in the picture window and tips the silver tea set with flecks of purple and yellow and pink.

Kathleen, eight, stands squinting in the sun in her two-piece play suit with belly button out. Convertibles flash by on the road, wind whipping around the edge and combing hair straight forward. Jack Keeler, big and brawny, gives the final touches to his parent's guest house. A child turns a rock over at the edge of the sea, and baby crabs race for the water.

Carl Fleming, to whom everything must be precisely right, supervises the hanging of lanterns for a beach party. Winter rust flakes brown from mooring bits. A small plane struggles up the beach dragging a big sign advertising a restaurant. Clam chowder simmers all day at Bahr's Landing. The off-watch crew on Scotland Lightship sun themselves in canvas slacks on the forepeak.

It is never too hot for the Jaekel grandchildren to play baseball. Bibs and Neville Russell, interior decorators, revert to an exterior garden to plant geraniums. The first yellowjacket of the season walks uphill on a large green leaf. Somewhere, an infant wails; the two o'clock feeding is ten minutes late.

Jim Sullivan stands in his cool saloon and draws a foamy beer. "Here's to you," he says to the mounted head of a fighting bull. "You were looking for trouble and you found it." Two boys in a rowboat hunt for shallow sandbars to dig clams. A Siamese sat curles her dark tail around under her nose and sits in the shade of a garage.

It is a serene afternoon. The tired breeze out of the south is refreshed. It scours the surface of the river. Gulls stand still on the wind, as the helicopter did an hour ago. Karen comes into the office. "I finished the book," she says. What book? "The one about General U. S. Grant." Good. It is a teen-age biography. "Are there any words you didn't understand?"

Lots of them, she says. But one kept coming up all the time. What was it? Karen shrugs. "I can't pronounce it. It's spelled U-l-y-s-s-e-s."

Summer is here again. . .

Some Political Questions Remain Unanswered In TFX Contract Probe

By Jack Anderson

Editor's Note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON—A suggestion to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee—before you close the books on your protracted probe of the TFX contract, here are some important leads your investigators have overlooked. They pertain chiefly to the fact that Grumman Aircraft is a vital partner in the General Dynamics TFX contract and Grumman's close liaison with the Democratic Party.

Lead No. 2—Matty Matthews was formerly on Grumman's payroll before he came to work for the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee. He has put Rettaliata in frequent touch with Vice President Johnson's office, specifically with Walter Jenkins, his assistant. Jenkins, when questioned, said that Rettaliata's visits and phone calls had dealt with the Gulfstream airplane, a sleek executive jet manufactured by Grumman which has been put at the disposal of leading Democrats.

Jenkins emphasized that Vice President Johnson had taken no free rides in Gulfstreams, but when this writer talked to Rettaliato he admitted that Grumman had furnished the Vice President with a "demonstration plane."

Lead No. 3—Before the TFX contract was awarded, the President's brother, Senator Teddy, spoke to Rettaliata and other Grumman officials about placing more sub-contracts in Massachusetts. When I asked Rettaliata whether Grumman would do what the Senator from Massachusetts asked, he replied:

"It would be hard to avoid the area."

Lead No? 4—Whether Vice President Johnson intervened in the TFX contract on behalf of General Dynamics-Grumman is a matter of dispute. The Air Force states that Secretary of the Air Force, Eugene Zuckert, had received an inquiry from Johnson regarding the status of the contract, but the Vice President, when queried, told me emphatically: "Zuckert's memory is faulty. I kept completely out of the TFX negotiations."

Lead No. 5—Mystery surrounds the reported $50,000 worth of tickets allegedly purchased by Grumman officials and their friends for the $1,000 a plate dinner for President Kennedy last January. This took place two months after the award of the TFX contract.

Rettaliata told me that he had no knowledge of any such fund raising for the Democrats. However, a letter signed by Rettaliata has now come to light urging Grumman subcontractors to buy advertisements in the Nassau County Democrats' Journal to be distributed at the local $100 a plate dinner.

It is also known that Rettaliata called occasionally on Dick McGuire, President Kennedy's key man on the Democratic National Committee. This column tried for ten days to get McGuire's comment on this, but he refused to return the call.

The Democratic National Committee has also refused to divulge the names of the contributors who bought tickets to the gala $1,000 dinner, where President Kennedy shook hands personally with Democrats in the dough.

"This is a matter between ourselves and the people who came," said Democratic press chief Sam Brightman, when asked for the names.

These are leads which this column has done its best to check out, but not having the power of subpoena, as do Senate investigators, we have about reached the end of the road.

Politics Vs Judgment

This column has previously noted that civilian Pentagon chiefs have a right to award a contract according to the economics of the nation, and previous Republican administrations did award contracts on the basis of helping companies in financial difficulties. This was the case with General Dynamics which had lost around $400,000,000 last year while Boeing had received twelve billions in government orders in ten years.

We do not believe Secretary of Defense McNamara let politics influence his judgment.

However, it remains a fact that Henry Crown, head of General Dynamics, is one of the most politically motivated executives in the country. His rise to be one of the wealthiest men in the world was originally due to a political in with the city bosses of Chicago.

If either General Dynamics or Grumman is playing politics with the TFX contract, or if some politicians are milking the TFX contract for campaign contributions, in either case, the public is entitled to know about it. This column covered the contributions which Len Hall, then Republican National Chairman milked out of the Frederick H. Snare Company in connection with the Nicaro government contract, and under a Democratic Administration it's fair to cover the same.

Shift In Expert Opinion On Sino-Soviet Break

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

On Friday of this week, another temporary patch-up of the bitter dispute between the Soviet and Chinese Communists was supposed to begin in Moscow, at the scheduled Sino-Russian meeting to discuss differences.

Only a month or so ago, this was the all-but-unanimous forecast of the leading students of the Communist branch of demonology. With a true embarrassment of riches to choose from, both the Chinese and Soviet parties had already named their most thoroughly nasty high personages as their negotiators at the Moscow meeting. But despite this negative sign, a patch-up was still expected.

Today, in sharp contrast, the expert forecast is no patch-up, and probably a final break between the two chief Communist parties of the world. This great shift in expert opinion is important in itself, since the Communist-demonologists are influential counselors of every Western government.

The reasons for the shift are compelling. (They had to be compelling, for the experts loathe changing their minds.) First of all, the Chinese have broken all previous records with a vicious denunciation of Nikita S. Khrushchev and all his works, published less than a fortnight before the supposed "reconciliation" meeting.

For the first time, therefore, the Western experts have been reluctantly driven to conclude that the Chinese Communist leaders actively desire a final break with Moscow — although a break which can be blamed on Moscow if possible. The old view, that the sacred unity of the Communist bloc must dominate the decision-making of both sides, is therefore out the window at last.

The Soviets, meanwhile, have shown not the smallest sign of giving way to the Chinese. On the contrary, they have now let it be known that at the recent clean-up of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, "the slanderous attack" of the Chinese "forced" the three eminent hardnoses who are supposed to meet with the Chinese, Suslov, Andropov, and Ponomarev, to speak their minds about Peking in no uncertain terms.

At this writing, it is far from clear that, if one of the two parties to the row actively desires a final break, a break will quite unavoidably take place sooner or later. It is sure to come eventually, unless Mao Tse-tung dies, or Khrushchev dies, or some other vast change alters the whole equation.

It is time, therefore, to think about the character of the new world-pattern that is likely to be produced by such a transforming event. With due respect, the best way to envision the effects of a final break between the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties is to recall the great church-divisions, which took place when the Patriarch of Constantinope proclaimed his independence of the Bishop of Rome, and when Martin Luther nailed his theses to the church door at Wittenberg.

This break will have some of the character of both of these rifts in the church. In other words, there will be a basic territorial division, like the ancient division between the Eastern and Western Churches. The Chinese Communists have already gained the adherence of all the other Oriental Communist parties except the North Vietnamese, who will almost certainly have to follow Peking when the moment of crises arrives.

But in addition, this break will put Moscow on the defensive, just as the Protestant Reformation put the Vatican on the defensive in its first stage. This is because the Chinese have chosen for themselves the more militant, uncompromising, angry, and revolutionary role.

To be sure, Moscow holds most of the trumps in most of the Communist parties outside Asia. A careful survey made in the State Department at the behest of Gov. Averill Harriman reveals no non-Asian parties except those in Albania, New Zealand, and probably Venezuela, in which the Chinese faction has a clear majority.

Furthermore, the parties in which the Chinese factions are even strong enough to cause serious trouble are limited to those in Mexico, Brazil, and Ecuador, the Scandinavian countries with special emphasis on Norway, and just possibly Great Britain.

The Muscovites have already expelled the pro-Chinese in the Belgian and Australian parties, and in India they have handed the pro-Chinese brethren over to Nehru's police. When the break comes, expulsions of Chinese factions are bound to follow in many other Communist parties all over the world.

Yet mere expulsions will not tidy things up, by a long chalk. The dreary, rigid, tradition-bound Moscovite parties will then have to compete with new, violence-drunken, pro-Chinese parties, claiming to expound the true scripture and calling all and sundry to revolution tomorrow. Moscow has bought the loyalty of Fidel Castro at a high price, in preparation for the break that now looms, but the example of Castro is still the one the Chinese will point to, after their own supreme example.

In sum, this great event will offer opportunities to the West, but it is also pretty likely to create grave problems.

WHO WON?—Before President Kennedy announced that he would not re-appoint Adm. George W. Anderson to a second two-year term as Chief of Naval Operations, Anderson and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara were having differences.

Anderson wanted Adm. H. Page Smith appointed to the key post of over-all Atlantic commander. McNamara favored Vice Adm. David L. McDonald. Shortly after Kennedy's announcement, Anderson won a somewhat Pyrrhic victory. Smith, his man, got the Atlantic job. But we really suppose that it was with McNamara's consent inasmuch as McDonald was named to succeed Anderson as CNO.

BEST-SELLER SEQUEL — A while ago, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, found that among the Government Printing Office's "best-seller" publications was pamphlet No. F2131, titled "How to Raise Rabbits."

Senator Young is somewhat impatient with the subject matter chosen for many government publications, and he cited this one as a horrible example of things government departments should not be occupying their time with.

In a further comment on the pamphlet, Young remarked, "We might wonder does the Public Printer also offer for sale a booklet, 'How to Stop Raising Rabbits'. This often is the principal concern following the time a person learns how to raise them."

Accident Toll High In Children Under 15

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Children under age 15 constitute 40 per cent of the total population. Accidents are the largest single cause of death in this age group. Three times as many die in this way as from cancer and almost four times as many as from congential defects. Accidents kill more boys and girls than the four leading fatal diseases combined.

Almost 60 per cent of the total number of mishaps occur at home. This is understandable because youngsters are inquisitive and learn by exploration, sampling, questioning, imitating, and by trial and error methods. Need we say more?

There is no sense in denying the existence of hazards in the home. They are there, and passive protection of the small-fry is not enough. According to Dr. Jay M. Arena, adults make two mistakes when it comes to accident prevention. They credit the tyke with more intelligence than he possesses or assume he is able to think for himself.

Toddlers must explore the entire house or apartment. They want to see, hold, touch, or taste everything. They love to open boxes, climb here and there, and pull whatever is in sight. They are too young to recognize danger and the wise mother puts all knick-knacks out of reach and keeps poisons and small objects out of sight or behind locked doors. Accident prevention at this age is the parents' responsibility.

With growth and development, the little one must be taught how to deal with normal perils of the world in which he lives, and how to distinguish between the dangerous and the safe. The basic approach centers about the discipline of obedience, which must be stressed over and over again. This is easier when the parents understand the different stages of development.

Injuries are more likely to occur before meals, at bedtime, or during overactivity. The same applies to sudden changes in environment, as in moving or at vacation time; or when mother is ill, too busy, or has her attention diverted by sickness in other members of the family. These are the additional family strains that contribute to the high accident toll in children.

TIRED MOTHER

Mrs. J. A. writes: I have nine children and am expecting the tenth. I am 32 years of age and feel weak and rundown all the time. Do you think having children so fast is causing this trouble?

REPLY

I suspect your weakness comes from taking care of rather than bearing so many children.

STONY LUNGS

A. E. writes: What is meant by calcification of a lung lesion?

REPLY

Some lung lesions turn to stone after they heal. Calcium is deposited in the scar tissue until it becomes as hard as rock.

ORANGE FALLACY

Mrs. J. writes: Is it true that the Florida citrus commission has discovered that oranges cause cancer?

REPLY

Heavens forbid. If this were true, most of us would be dead by now.

SWOLLEN THYROID

D. W. B. writes: Does goiter cause swelling in the throat or the neck?

REPLY

In the neck. A large goiter may press on the windpipe, but rarely on the throat.

WORK OFF NERVOUSNESS

T. K. writes: Is hard physical labor a cure for nervousness?

REPLY

No, but it may help individuals who spend too much time thinking about themselves.

TOMORROW: Letters from readers.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An American tourist, arriving at Paris Orly Airport for his first visit abroad, stopped at the restaurant near the customs counter for a bite of breakfast. What an opportunity to try out the French he had studied so laboriously from a set of phonograph records! He hailed a waiter and nervously ordered "Oeufs! Oeufs! (Eggs! Eggs!) The waiter regarded him in disbelief, so again the American cried "Oeufs! Oeufs!"

This time the waiter permitted himself the suspicion of a smile and, in perfect English, said to the tourist, "If you'll stop barking at me, sir, I'll be happy to take your order."

Eric Newby, a major figure in England's textile trade, recalls that when he wrote a book some time ago, his London publishers, Secker and Warburg, occupied a building that had been severely damaged by a bomb during World War II. A crack running from top to bottom made every employe apprehensive, and the first query of all callers was, "How's the crack today?" The expected collapse finally came. The head of the firm had just picked up the phone and ordered, "Get me New York" when a whole ceiling fell on his head. When they dug him out, he was still clutching the phone, bellowing, "What's the delay on my overseas call?"

The Shrewsbury is flat and fast this afternoon. Little spearing leap in silvery parabola as the big stripers prowl for hors d'oeuvres. On the far shore, the slender spire of a church lifts its cross above the trees. In front of the old house, thousands of petunias lift their heads in pink and lavender and white to listen to the gurgle of the fountain.

A tired breeze plays roulette with the leaves on the pin oaks. A housefly walks aimlessly up and down the outside of a screen, trying to find a way in. A wood spider, inside the screen, runs up and down in spurts, trying to find a way out. Rocky dozes under an air conditioner; only the ears are awake.

The thermometer stands at 84. The pale blue haze of summer is here. A boat comes back from the sea and a man stands at the taffrail cleaning bluefish. Sea gulls swoop low in the wake like train bearers at a wedding. A red canvas deckchair sits fading in the sun. The children are on the backyard swings and Karen falls. She is too old, at 10, to cry, and too young to swallow the pain. The tears fall in silence. A black bird with orange wings sits on the edge of the fountain. The head darts in several directions. She sees the sparkle of the cool water and drinks first, then squats in it and bathes, hula style. Little unwanted weeds grow between the colored flagstones, each one at the mercy of passing feet, each afraid to be taller than the others.

Gayle aims the garden hose at her car — third time in a week. She looks up at a yellow helicopter, standing still in the sky. In it is Jack Sullivan, chairman of the State Boating Commission. A fisherman in chest-high boots stands in the surf across the street and casts a hooked shrimp into the high lazy green breakers.

My father sits in the dining room, watching his Yankees. The twins, Robin and Pamela, almost five, sit on the floor rolling pool balls at each other and shrieking when they collide in mid-flight. A white crane stands like a statue in green swale. Two pale girls in black bathing suits tread the hot sand in painful ballet.

The Hi-Fi set soothes the ears with a complicated bolero. Gray smoke lifts listlessly from the trash barrel in the back yard. The bridge tender stirs himself to let a graceful sloop through. Old moss paints a border of green along the bottom of the red dock. The Ship Ahoy sports a necklace of coach lights across the front of the beach club.

In the haze, the liner United States pauses to drop a pilot, then digs her heels into the green sea to speed to Europe. A baby green snake slithers to a stop beside the sea wall, lost. Bright sun comes through the pressed butterflies in the picture window and tips the silver tea set with flecks of purple and yellow and pink.

Kathleen, eight, stands squinting in the sun in her two-piece play suit with belly button out. Convertibles flash by on the road, wind whipping around the edge and combing hair straight forward. Jack Keeler, big and brawny, gives the final touches to his parent's guest house. A child turns a rock over at the edge of the sea, and baby crabs race for the water.

Carl Fleming, to whom everything must be precisely right, supervises the hanging of lanterns for a beach party. Winter rust flakes brown from mooring bits. A small plane struggles up the beach dragging a big sign advertising a restaurant. Clam chowder simmers all day at Bahr's Landing. The off-watch crew on Scotland Lightship sun themselves in canvas slacks on the forepeak.

It is never too hot for the Jaekel grandchildren to play baseball. Bibs and Neville Russell, interior decorators, revert to an exterior garden to plant geraniums. The first yellowjacket of the season walks uphill on a large green leaf. Somewhere, an infant wails; the two o'clock feeding is ten minutes late.

Jim Sullivan stands in his cool saloon and draws a foamy beer. "Here's to you," he says to the mounted head of a fighting bull. "You were looking for trouble and you found it." Two boys in a rowboat hunt for shallow sandbars to dig clams. A Siamese sat curles her dark tail around under her nose and sits in the shade of a garage.

It is a serene afternoon. The tired breeze out of the south is refreshed. It scours the surface of the river. Gulls stand still on the wind, as the helicopter did an hour ago. Karen comes into the office. "I finished the book," she says. What book? "The one about General U. S. Grant." Good. It is a teen-age biography. "Are there any words you didn't understand?"

Lots of them, she says. But one kept coming up all the time. What was it? Karen shrugs. "I can't pronounce it. It's spelled U-l-y-s-s-e-s."

Berkeley Gets Development Loan From U.S.

Fund To Aid Local Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $107,300 loan to Morgan County Economic Development Corp., Berkeley Springs, W.Va., was announced Tuesday by the Small Business Administration.

The money will be used for purchase of machinery and equipment for Vanguard Products, Inc., maker of leather luggage and sporting goods. The company estimates the new equipment will increase production and provide 80 new jobs.

A local bank is taking a 10 per cent share in the 10-year loan, the announcement said. SBA said the interest rate will be 4 per cent instead of the normal 5.5 per cent because the firm is in an area of substantial unemployment.

The development corporation is contributing $26,842 toward the total cost of $134,142 of the project.

Gov. Barron Reappoints Jack Nuckols

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron has re-appointed State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack Nuckols, subject to newspaper criticism for alleged extravagance, to a term ending in 1967.

The Beckley insurance executive's most recent criticism came when it was disclosed that expensive uniforms had been purchased for certain members of his department.

Barron made five appointments to the new Board of Registration for Foresters. They were Jack Vorbach of Romney, 1964; Eugene P. Shreve, Rupert, 1965; George R. Trimble Jr., Elkins, 1966; John F. Tillinghast, Madison, 1967; and Dr. W. C. Percival, Morgantown, 1968.

The governor also made five appointments to the new Oil and Gas Inspectors Board. They were Carl D. Reese, Clarksburg, 1965; Wendell Moore, Charleston, 1967; Frank Yost of Burton, 1969; and Lloyd Jackson, Hamlin, 1971. Also a member of this board, by statute, is the professor in charge of the petroleum engineering department at West Virginia University, Richard W. Laird, Morgantown.

Dr. Carl Hoffman, Huntington, was appointed to the Board of Examiners for Practical Nurses, succeeding Dr. Clark K. Sleeth of Morgantown. Hoffman's term will end June 30, 1968.

Ira E. Eyler, Martinsburg, was appointed to the Advisory State Road Commission, succeeding Ralph S. Shepler of Elkins, for a term ending June 30, 1970.

Man Who Buries Self Alive Expresses Disappointment At Lack Of Curiosity

By CARLO J. SALZANO
United Press International

RIPLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Capt. Frank, who referred to himself as "Ripley's Forgotten Man," sounded somewhat discouraged and disappointed.

Here he was, on the verge of breaking a record as a "live corpse," and only about 3,000 persons had been curious enough to walk the 100 yards from U. S. 21 to peer down at him through a one-by-two foot opening at the top of his "grave."

Fifty-two days ago, the Beckley stuntman had himself buried in a six-foot pine box for the purpose of breaking his own 62-day record set in Houston, Tex., in 1947. This time, Allen is shooting for a 100-day stretch, in observance of West Virginia's 100th birthday.

The 54-year-old Frank Allen, whose friends call him Capt. Frank, will mark his 63rd day July 12 and his 100th on Aug. 18.

The 210-pound Allen, who makes a living repairing furniture when he's not on one of his burial stunts, said he was "disappointed at the light turnout, especially from the people of Ripley."

Early Opposition

"I've been written up in papers all over the country and in Canada but Ripley doesn't even mention me as one of its attractions during the big July Fourth celebration it's preparing," Allen observed.

Allen indicated he wasn't too surprised anyway because he proceeded with his stunt in the face of early opposition, "especially from the owner of that house over there." With his head, he motioned toward a home only a few yards from the canopy covering the grave site.

Promoter Tom Nary, also of Beckley, said he and Allen "have been approached by all types of investigating department officials ...to investigate for violations." Nary said no one should be concerned for Allen's safety because all sanitation and safety precautions have been taken.

"One of the main reasons for this is to try and make some money to pay for another operation for my boy," Allen said. "James Rodney, he's two now, was born blind. One operation gave him the sight of one eye but now I'd like to try for another operation that might make him see from the other eye."

"But I've only been able to collect about $300 as my 40 per cent share of tickets sold," Allen said. "The rest is going to the Jackson County Centennial Committee, Nary and two or three men hired to stand a round-the-clock watch over the grave."

Preferred Charleston

The State Centennial Commission said it had turned down a request to join in sponsoring the feat.

Anyone can go up to see the grave site on the property of J&J Truck Stop, the owner of which has volunteered to supply Allen with three meals a day which are lowered to him through the opening. But, there is a charge of 25 cents for adults who want to look down into the "periscope" and talk to Allen.

"I wanted to do this somewhere else, like Charleston," Allen said. "I think I would have made out better but I was advised to do it here instead."

Despite the discomfort in his 25-inch-high "coffin" and his obvious disappointment, Allen appeared to be in good spirits. A three-day growth covered his face—Allen shaves with an electric razor twice a week — and black hair, growing over his ears, was matted under his head.

Allen said his main meal is dropped down to him around three or four in the afternoon. In the morning, he eats a breakfast of cereal and coffee. Around 8 p.m., he very appropriately eats a serving of "grave-yard stew" — hot milk and toast.

Allen said the apparent lack of interest in his feat won't keep him from trying for the distance and looking ahead to other exhibitions this summer.

"Just say I'm going to give it a good try," Allen said. "If I get through this I'd like to try a week-long stretch at the State Fair in Greenbrier County in August."

Two Drownings In West Virginia

By United Press International

Accidental drownings claimed two lives in West Virginia late Monday.

John Martin, 24, of Finleyville, Pa., drowned in a Robinson's Run pond near Shinnston. He was thrown into the water when a rubber raft he was floating on collapsed.

Martin, who could not swim, had been visiting with his parents at Mannington. His body was recovered by a diver about two hours later.

Dale Boehm, 9, of Huntington, drowned in the Ohio River when he fell from a dock at the Huntington Yacht Club. The body was recovered a short time later.

Tests Show City Doesn't Need Airline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board Monday said Allegheny Airlines trial service between Wheleing, W. Va., and New York City has produced few passengers and is not needed.

"Our evaluation of the carrier's operating results convinces us that the service is not required," the board said in dismissing a petition from Wheeling for an investigation of adequacy of air service Allegheny provides the city.

Action on the petition was deferred by a board order Aug. 3 pending evaluation of the trial flights.

Part of the test also centered on Allegheny flights between New York City on the one hand and Huntington, and Parkersburg, W. Va., on the other.

Allegheny, in asking June 4 for dismissal of the petition, said traffic was disappointing although it used its best equipment and promoted its service extensively in Wheeling, Parkersburg and Huntington.

Council Holds Routine Meet

WESTERNPORT — Mayor and Commissioners held a routine business session Monday evening at the council chamber.

Lacey Tinsley Jr. and Frank Welsh presented their bill to the council for approval for construction work completed. The charge was contingent upon the new ruling made at the last meeting for rental of curb forms.

The officials agreed to pay an additional $19 to the total of $218, which was satisfactory to Mr. Tinsley and Mr. Welsh.

William Martin was granted permission to obtain water to refurbish several wells in the Bruce High School area, when they go dry.

The council adjourned at 9 p.m. for the meeting of the Westernport Planning Commission which they attended.

Council Adopts Two Ordinances At Frostburg

Officials Air Varied Complaints

FROSTBURG—Two ordinances were adopted Monday night by the Mayor and Council.

The first deals with the imposition of costs on city cases tried in Trial Magistrates Court. The second would abolish the city tax collector's office and create the office of tax clerk.

The Maryland Department of Public Works forwarded a plan showing a part of Park Avenue it desired to close in the vicinity of Diehl Hall at Frostburg State College. No official action was taken as council understood this part to be included in a street closed number of years ago.

The low bid of Kowell Motors of $2,063.50 for a new police cruiser was accepted. Other bids were: Pen Mar Motors, $2,399; Clarysville Motors, $2,216.87 and Frostburg Auto, $2,150.

Florian Nickel, representing the Borden Mining Company, inquired as to the possibility of opening a new thoroughfare off Centennial Street. Council informed him that a plan would have to be presented with a complete outline for water, sewage and grading before they would grant permission. This is in line with urban renewal and planning.

Mrs. Daniel Arnold, McCulloh Street, expressed her dissatisfaction with grading in front of several of her properties on the newly-paved section of the street. William Preston, street commissioner, informed her that work was not completed and he would check with her when final work was done.

Ellis Spiker, Bowery Street Extended, objected to Braddock Park being used by groups from out of the city and from other sections of the town, stating that traffic would ruin the paving on the street for which he had to pay last year. Council informed him that no restrictions could be placed on use of the street.

Spiker also objected to the park being open for traffic after night closing. Council agreed to ask park officials to see that it was "locked up" after use each evening.

Rev. George Wehler informed council that some elderly women of his church had been "high pressured" into purchasing a rug sweeper and washer. He said the salesman implied that the person could purchase the machine for $16.75 if she gave him 10 prospects which he could sell. When she read the contract later, she found that she would owe over $200 if the prospects failed to buy. Council said they had no jurisdiction except to check if salesmen had permits. Residents were cautioned to check on all such contracts before "signing up".

Kenneth Foor, Centennial Street, advised council by letter that he was holding the city financially responsible for damages incurred in an accident last April. He stated that his car was struck by a vehicle which a police officer allegedly permitted to leave the scene of an accident without getting the license number. He has been unable to collect any damages from the state, and said he was holding the city responsible. Council was advised to reject his claim by City Attorney John Sullivan.

Governor Urges Courteous Driving To Halt Mishaps

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia motorists were urged Monday to "extend their friendly, hospitable Centennial spirit" to their driving.

Gov. W. W. Barron, with an eye to expected increases in motoring activities during the Fourth of July holiday period, appealed to motorists to use good judgement and common sense during the holiday.

"There will probably be more cars on our highways this Fourth of July than any other period in our history as West Virginians and visitors from out-of-state join in the Centennial celebration," Barron explained.

"Not one of these thousands of drivers will be expecting an accident to happen to him, but with such a traffic rush, every driver must be extremely cautious to prevent accidents," Barron continued.

Berkeley Gets Development Loan From U.S.

Fund To Aid Local Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $107,300 loan to Morgan County Economic Development Corp., Berkeley Springs, W.Va., was announced Tuesday by the Small Business Administration.

The money will be used for purchase of machinery and equipment for Vanguard Products, Inc., maker of leather luggage and sporting goods. The company estimates the new equipment will increase production and provide 80 new jobs.

A local bank is taking a 10 per cent share in the 10-year loan, the announcement said. SBA said the interest rate will be 4 per cent instead of the normal 5.5 per cent because the firm is in an area of substantial unemployment.

The development corporation is contributing $26,842 toward the total cost of $134,142 of the project.

Gov. Barron Reappoints Jack Nuckols

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron has re-appointed State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack Nuckols, subject to newspaper criticism for alleged extravagance, to a term ending in 1967.

The Beckley insurance executive's most recent criticism came when it was disclosed that expensive uniforms had been purchased for certain members of his department.

Barron made five appointments to the new Board of Registration for Foresters. They were Jack Vorbach of Romney, 1964; Eugene P. Shreve, Rupert, 1965; George R. Trimble Jr., Elkins, 1966; John F. Tillinghast, Madison, 1967; and Dr. W. C. Percival, Morgantown, 1968.

The governor also made five appointments to the new Oil and Gas Inspectors Board. They were Carl D. Reese, Clarksburg, 1965; Wendell Moore, Charleston, 1967; Frank Yost of Burton, 1969; and Lloyd Jackson, Hamlin, 1971. Also a member of this board, by statute, is the professor in charge of the petroleum engineering department at West Virginia University, Richard W. Laird, Morgantown.

Dr. Carl Hoffman, Huntington, was appointed to the Board of Examiners for Practical Nurses, succeeding Dr. Clark K. Sleeth of Morgantown. Hoffman's term will end June 30, 1968.

Ira E. Eyler, Martinsburg, was appointed to the Advisory State Road Commission, succeeding Ralph S. Shepler of Elkins, for a term ending June 30, 1970.

Man Who Buries Self Alive Expresses Disappointment At Lack Of Curiosity

By CARLO J. SALZANO
United Press International

RIPLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Capt. Frank, who referred to himself as "Ripley's Forgotten Man," sounded somewhat discouraged and disappointed.

Here he was, on the verge of breaking a record as a "live corpse," and only about 3,000 persons had been curious enough to walk the 100 yards from U. S. 21 to peer down at him through a one-by-two foot opening at the top of his "grave."

Fifty-two days ago, the Beckley stuntman had himself buried in a six-foot pine box for the purpose of breaking his own 62-day record set in Houston, Tex., in 1947. This time, Allen is shooting for a 100-day stretch, in observance of West Virginia's 100th birthday.

The 54-year-old Frank Allen, whose friends call him Capt. Frank, will mark his 63rd day July 12 and his 100th on Aug. 18.

The 210-pound Allen, who makes a living repairing furniture when he's not on one of his burial stunts, said he was "disappointed at the light turnout, especially from the people of Ripley."

Early Opposition

"I've been written up in papers all over the country and in Canada but Ripley doesn't even mention me as one of its attractions during the big July Fourth celebration it's preparing," Allen observed.

Allen indicated he wasn't too surprised anyway because he proceeded with his stunt in the face of early opposition, "especially from the owner of that house over there." With his head, he motioned toward a home only a few yards from the canopy covering the grave site.

Promoter Tom Nary, also of Beckley, said he and Allen "have been approached by all types of investigating department officials ...to investigate for violations." Nary said no one should be concerned for Allen's safety because all sanitation and safety precautions have been taken.

"One of the main reasons for this is to try and make some money to pay for another operation for my boy," Allen said. "James Rodney, he's two now, was born blind. One operation gave him the sight of one eye but now I'd like to try for another operation that might make him see from the other eye."

"But I've only been able to collect about $300 as my 40 per cent share of tickets sold," Allen said. "The rest is going to the Jackson County Centennial Committee, Nary and two or three men hired to stand a round-the-clock watch over the grave."

Preferred Charleston

The State Centennial Commission said it had turned down a request to join in sponsoring the feat.

Anyone can go up to see the grave site on the property of J&J Truck Stop, the owner of which has volunteered to supply Allen with three meals a day which are lowered to him through the opening. But, there is a charge of 25 cents for adults who want to look down into the "periscope" and talk to Allen.

"I wanted to do this somewhere else, like Charleston," Allen said. "I think I would have made out better but I was advised to do it here instead."

Despite the discomfort in his 25-inch-high "coffin" and his obvious disappointment, Allen appeared to be in good spirits. A three-day growth covered his face—Allen shaves with an electric razor twice a week — and black hair, growing over his ears, was matted under his head.

Allen said his main meal is dropped down to him around three or four in the afternoon. In the morning, he eats a breakfast of cereal and coffee. Around 8 p.m., he very appropriately eats a serving of "grave-yard stew" — hot milk and toast.

Allen said the apparent lack of interest in his feat won't keep him from trying for the distance and looking ahead to other exhibitions this summer.

"Just say I'm going to give it a good try," Allen said. "If I get through this I'd like to try a week-long stretch at the State Fair in Greenbrier County in August."

Tests Show City Doesn't Need Airline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board Monday said Allegheny Airlines trial service between Wheleing, W. Va., and New York City has produced few passengers and is not needed.

"Our evaluation of the carrier's operating results convinces us that the service is not required," the board said in dismissing a petition from Wheeling for an investigation of adequacy of air service Allegheny provides the city.

Action on the petition was deferred by a board order Aug. 3 pending evaluation of the trial flights.

Part of the test also centered on Allegheny flights between New York City on the one hand and Huntington, and Parkersburg, W. Va., on the other.

Allegheny, in asking June 4 for dismissal of the petition, said traffic was disappointing although it used its best equipment and promoted its service extensively in Wheeling, Parkersburg and Huntington.

William Martin was granted permission to obtain water to refurbish several wells in the Bruce High School area, when they go dry.

Billie Jean Moffitt Is Victor Over Maria Bueno At Wimbledon

19-Year-Old Giant Killer Pulls Upset

Goes To Semi-Finals With Darlene Hard After 6-2, 7-5 Win

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Billie Jean Moffitt, the 19-year-old giant killer from Long Beach, Calif., upset former champion Maria Bueno of Brazil Tuesday and joined Darlene Hard, another Californian, in the semifinals of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships.

Little Billie Jean, overlooked in the seedings, knocked out seventh-seeded Miss Bueno, the 1959 and 1960 winner, 6-2, 7-5 and kept alive her growing reputation for deflating favorites. When she smashed home the winning point, Billie Jean, only 5-foot-6, danced joyfully to the net while the dispirited Brazilian walked up slowly for the handshake.

Makes Eighth Attempth

Miss Hard, making her eighth—and probably last — attempt to win at Wimbledon, eliminated Jan Lehane of Australia 6-1, 1-2 when the Australian girl had to retire because of a twisted ankle. Miss Hard, also from Long Beach, is seeded fourth but ranked No. 1 in the United States.

Next in line for Billie Jean in Thursday's semis will be Ann Haydon Jones of Britain, who ousted Mrs. Donna Floyd Fales of New York 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Hard, the perennial challenger, must face top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia who defeated Renee Schuurman of South Africa after losing the first set 3-6, 6-0, 6-1. Miss Smith, winner of most of the big tournaments in the world but never at Wimbledon, was beaten here last year by Billie Jean in a first round match.

McKinley Plays Today

Chuck McKinley, an acrobatic 22-year-old from St. Louis and Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., will carry America's hopes in the men's singles semifinals Wednesday against Wilhelm Bungert, the German conqueror of favored Roy Emerson.

In the other semifinal, it will be Manuel Santana of Spain, the No. 2 seed, against Fred Stolle, the Australian who ousted Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., in the quarter-finals.

Bungert will be a hard one to beat. He knocked out Mike Sangster of Britain, the eighth seed, in the first round and proved he could deal with a big service and use his brain in his shocking upset of Emerson.

Birds' Rally In 7th Beats Angels, 4-3

Johnson And Smith Hits Decide Battle

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bob Johnson's single and Al Smith's double capped a two-run seventh inning rally that earned the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday night.

With the score tied at 2-2 in the seventh and two out, Johnson singled home Luis Aparicio from second. After Jim Gentile walked, Johnson rode home on Smith's double.

The Orioles scored all their runs off loser Paul Foytack (1-2).

The Angels scored their first two runs in the fourth off starter Steve Barber on three hits and an outfield error by Boog Powell. Barber was removed in the fifth inning when he developed a stiffness in his right knee that resulted from a collision with Foytack when Barber was running out an infield hit in the fourth.

Albie Pearson's fifth home run off Dick Hall, who won his third game against two defeats, accounted for the last Los Angeles run.

Smith, who came off the bench in the first inning to replace Fred Valentine, who was injured chasing Jim Fregosi's double, collected three hits and drove in two runs.

Robinson Blames Players For Orioles "June Swoon"

3d Baseman Defends Manager Hitchcock

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Brooks Robinson, the Baltimore Orioles' All-Star third baseman, Wednesday defended Manager Billy Hitchcock and said the players have only themselves to blame for the "June swoon" that dropped them to sixth place.

"I can't blame the manager," Robinson said. "Hitchcock can't swing the bat for you, and he can't do the pitching for you."

Hitchcock has been under heavy fire in the local press during the Orioles' current tailspin. On May 28, the Birds were on the crest of a nine-game winning streak and were in first place with a 3½ game lead.

Writer Blasts Hitchcock

Going into Wednesday night's game against the Angels, the Orioles had lost 23 of their last 34 games and had fallen to sixth place, 6½ behind the league-leading New York Yankees. One local writer blasted Hitchcock by saying he "failed to win the confidence of many of his men."

But Robinson figures it differently. He thinks the trouble is simply that "we're just not doing anything right."

Everything, he thinks, just happened to go wrong at the same time.

"We played horrible all June," he said. "When your pitching gives up 24 homers in 12 games, you're in trouble. And worse than that, everyone seems to be a great pitcher when you're not hitting."

One chief trouble with the Oriole attack is that "we haven't been hitting with men on."

Cites Poor Averages

"We don't even have a hitter over .280 except for (reserve infielder) Bob Johnson, and he's only got 25 hits," Robinson pointed out.

Robinson, himself, who was as high in the averages as .299 on June 6, was at .275 going into Tuesday night's game but had a solid total of 43 runs-batted-in.

Miller's Homer Wins For Barton Junior Legion

Marvin Miller's three-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning propelled Barton to an 8-6 triumph over Westernport yesterday in a Mountain District Junior American Legion Baseball League game played at Barton.

The visitors had taken a 6-2 lead before Barton rallied back for three runs in the sixth. Pat Ryan supplanted Eugene Taylor on the mound for Westernport in the seventh and yielded Miller's game-winning blast which upped Barton's record to 3-2 and sent Westernport down to its sixth straight defeat.

Larry Mills, who went all the way for Barton, was the victim of poor defensive support in the early innings. He hurled scoreless ball over the last four frames, finished with a total of seven strikeouts and failed to walk a batter.

Fred Sloan hit a bases-empty homer for Barton in the second, Miller had a single to go with his round-tripper, and Larry Suder collected two hits for the winners. Taylor was three-for-four for Westernport.

Twins Beat Tigers, Move To 2nd Place

DETROIT (UPI)—Bob Allison hit a two-run homer and Jim Hall slammed a three-run homer to power the rampaging Minnesota Twins to their eighth straight triumph Tuesday night, a 7-4 decision over the Detroit Tigers that moved the Twins into second place in the American League.

The Twins, who are 33-12 since May 15 when they were in the basement with an 11-20 mark, jumped into second place one-half game ahead of the Chicago White Sox. The Twins are three games behind New York.

Glassmen Nip Elks In RCL

Vets And Moose Are Rained Out

Rain forced postponement of two of the three games scheduled for yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League, including the battle between league-leading Moose and runnerup VFW at Stitcher Field. The Caseys-Rothe Heating contest, slated for Post Field, was also called off.

In the only league game played, Pittsburgh Plate Glass edged the Elks, 3-2, in eight innings at PPG Field.

Allan Sheets, veteran RCL hurler who appeared in one game for the Caseys this season, made his first start for PPG yesterday.

Bill Thompson, another member of the Glassmen's mound staff, enabled Sheetz to become a winner in his initial start by driving home the tie-breaking run in the bottom of the eighth.

Thompson's single to rightfield scored Bill Wilson from second with none out in the eighth and ended what had been a tight duel between Sheetz and the Elks' Leo Rhodes. Thompson also had a double for the winners, who recorded their sixth victory against eight losses. The Elks are 4-10.

"Pooch" Orndorff had a 3-3 day and Tom McConnell collected two hits for the Elks. Joe Wolfe turned in an outstanding performance for the losers in centerfield.

The Vets-Moose game has been rescheduled for Sunday at Stitcher Field, starting at 6:15 p. m.

Houk Blasted By Stuart For All-Star Snub

BOSTON (AP) — Bitter Boston first baseman Dick Stuart, his one-day benching lifted, lashed out at his omission from the American League All-Star squad, the Boston Record American reported Tuesday.

Under the byline of Larry Claflin from Cleveland, the Record American quoted Stuart as saying:

"It's tough to have a third string catcher like Ralph Houk keep you off the All-Star team? He never made one in his life. All he ever did was sit in the dugout.

"He got into the All-Star game himself, because Casey Stengel got fired and they made him manager of the Yankees"

Haddix, McBean Preserve 3-2 Win For Law

Halt Phils' Rally In Eighth Inning

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Harvey Haddix and Al McBean halted an eighth-inning rally with a pair of strikeouts and an infield out to preserve a 3-2 victory for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Vernon Law over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night.

Haddix came on in relief of Law with the Pirates leading 3-1 after the Phils put the tying run on second with a single by Tony Taylor to open the inning and a double by Johnny Callison. The little southpaw struck out left-handed swingers Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington.

McBean relieved Haddix when Roy Sievers batted for Frank Torre. Sievers rapped to short, where Johnny Logan bobbled the ball, letting Taylor score. Then Clay Dalrymple bounced out to Logan for an inning-ending force on Sievers.

McBean gave up two singles with two out in the ninth, but got Callison on an infield pop to end the game.

Law (2-3), bidding for his first complete game of the season, had a four-hitter until the eighth, with the only Phils' run a homer by Gonzalez in the sixth.

Billie Jean Moffitt Is Victor Over Maria Bueno At Wimbledon

19-Year-Old Giant Killer Pulls Upset

Goes To Semi-Finals With Darlene Hard After 6-2, 7-5 Win

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Billie Jean Moffitt, the 19-year-old giant killer from Long Beach, Calif., upset former champion Maria Bueno of Brazil Tuesday and joined Darlene Hard, another Californian, in the semifinals of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships.

Little Billie Jean, overlooked in the seedings, knocked out seventh-seeded Miss Bueno, the 1959 and 1960 winner, 6-2, 7-5 and kept alive her growing reputation for deflating favorites. When she smashed home the winning point, Billie Jean, only 5-foot-6, danced joyfully to the net while the dispirited Brazilian walked up slowly for the handshake.

Makes Eighth Attempth

Miss Hard, making her eighth—and probably last — attempt to win at Wimbledon, eliminated Jan Lehane of Australia 6-1, 1-2 when the Australian girl had to retire because of a twisted ankle. Miss Hard, also from Long Beach, is seeded fourth but ranked No. 1 in the United States.

Next in line for Billie Jean in Thursday's semis will be Ann Haydon Jones of Britain, who ousted Mrs. Donna Floyd Fales of New York 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Hard, the perennial challenger, must face top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia who defeated Renee Schuurman of South Africa after losing the first set 3-6, 6-0, 6-1. Miss Smith, winner of most of the big tournaments in the world but never at Wimbledon, was beaten here last year by Billie Jean in a first round match.

McKinley Plays Today

Chuck McKinley, an acrobatic 22-year-old from St. Louis and Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., will carry America's hopes in the men's singles semifinals Wednesday against Wilhelm Bungert, the German conqueror of favored Roy Emerson.

In the other semifinal, it will be Manuel Santana of Spain, the No. 2 seed, against Fred Stolle, the Australian who ousted Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., in the quarter-finals.

Bungert will be a hard one to beat. He knocked out Mike Sangster of Britain, the eighth seed, in the first round and proved he could deal with a big service and use his brain in his shocking upset of Emerson.

Birds' Rally In 7th Beats Angels, 4-3

Johnson And Smith Hits Decide Battle

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bob Johnson's single and Al Smith's double capped a two-run seventh inning rally that earned the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday night.

With the score tied at 2-2 in the seventh and two out, Johnson singled home Luis Aparicio from second. After Jim Gentile walked, Johnson rode home on Smith's double.

The Orioles scored all their runs off loser Paul Foytack (1-2).

The Angels scored their first two runs in the fourth off starter Steve Barber on three hits and an outfield error by Boog Powell. Barber was removed in the fifth inning when he developed a stiffness in his right knee that resulted from a collision with Foytack when Barber was running out an infield hit in the fourth.

Albie Pearson's fifth home run off Dick Hall, who won his third game against two defeats, accounted for the last Los Angeles run.

Smith, who came off the bench in the first inning to replace Fred Valentine, who was injured chasing Jim Fregosi's double, collected three hits and drove in two runs.

Robinson Blames Players For Orioles "June Swoon"

3d Baseman Defends Manager Hitchcock

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Brooks Robinson, the Baltimore Orioles' All-Star third baseman, Wednesday defended Manager Billy Hitchcock and said the players have only themselves to blame for the "June swoon" that dropped them to sixth place.

"I can't blame the manager," Robinson said. "Hitchcock can't swing the bat for you, and he can't do the pitching for you."

Hitchcock has been under heavy fire in the local press during the Orioles' current tailspin. On May 28, the Birds were on the crest of a nine-game winning streak and were in first place with a 3½ game lead.

Writer Blasts Hitchcock

Going into Wednesday night's game against the Angels, the Orioles had lost 23 of their last 34 games and had fallen to sixth place, 6½ behind the league-leading New York Yankees. One local writer blasted Hitchcock by saying he "failed to win the confidence of many of his men."

But Robinson figures it differently. He thinks the trouble is simply that "we're just not doing anything right."

Everything, he thinks, just happened to go wrong at the same time.

"We played horrible all June," he said. "When your pitching gives up 24 homers in 12 games, you're in trouble. And worse than that, everyone seems to be a great pitcher when you're not hitting."

One chief trouble with the Oriole attack is that "we haven't been hitting with men on."

Cites Poor Averages

"We don't even have a hitter over .280 except for (reserve infielder) Bob Johnson, and he's only got 25 hits," Robinson pointed out.

Robinson, himself, who was as high in the averages as .299 on June 6, was at .275 going into Tuesday night's game but had a solid total of 43 runs-batted-in.

Miller's Homer Wins For Barton Junior Legion

Marvin Miller's three-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning propelled Barton to an 8-6 triumph over Westernport yesterday in a Mountain District Junior American Legion Baseball League game played at Barton.

The visitors had taken a 6-2 lead before Barton rallied back for three runs in the sixth. Pat Ryan supplanted Eugene Taylor on the mound for Westernport in the seventh and yielded Miller's game-winning blast which upped Barton's record to 3-2 and sent Westernport down to its sixth straight defeat.

Larry Mills, who went all the way for Barton, was the victim of poor defensive support in the early innings. He hurled scoreless ball over the last four frames, finished with a total of seven strikeouts and failed to walk a batter.

Fred Sloan hit a bases-empty homer for Barton in the second, Miller had a single to go with his round-tripper, and Larry Suder collected two hits for the winners. Taylor was three-for-four for Westernport.

The linescore:

Twins Beat Tigers, Move To 2nd Place

DETROIT (UPI)—Bob Allison hit a two-run homer and Jim Hall slammed a three-run homer to power the rampaging Minnesota Twins to their eighth straight triumph Tuesday night, a 7-4 decision over the Detroit Tigers that moved the Twins into second place in the American League.

The Twins, who are 33-12 since May 15 when they were in the basement with an 11-20 mark, jumped into second place one-half game ahead of the Chicago White Sox. The Twins are three games behind New York.

Glassmen Nip Elks In RCL

Vets And Moose Are Rained Out

Rain forced postponement of two of the three games scheduled for yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League, including the battle between league-leading Moose and runnerup VFW at Stitcher Field. The Caseys-Rothe Heating contest, slated for Post Field, was also called off.

In the only league game played, Pittsburgh Plate Glass edged the Elks, 3-2, in eight innings at PPG Field.

Allan Sheets, veteran RCL hurler who appeared in one game for the Caseys this season, made his first start for PPG yesterday.

Bill Thompson, another member of the Glassmen's mound staff, enabled Sheetz to become a winner in his initial start by driving home the tie-breaking run in the bottom of the eighth.

Thompson's single to rightfield scored Bill Wilson from second with none out in the eighth and ended what had been a tight duel between Sheetz and the Elks' Leo Rhodes. Thompson also had a double for the winners, who recorded their sixth victory against eight losses. The Elks are 4-10.

"Pooch" Orndorff had a 3-3 day and Tom McConnell collected two hits for the Elks. Joe Wolfe turned in an outstanding performance for the losers in centerfield.

The Vets-Moose game has been rescheduled for Sunday at Stitcher Field, starting at 6:15 p. m.

Houk Blasted By Stuart For All-Star Snub

BOSTON (AP) — Bitter Boston first baseman Dick Stuart, his one-day benching lifted, lashed out at his omission from the American League All-Star squad, the Boston Record American reported Tuesday.

Under the byline of Larry Claflin from Cleveland, the Record American quoted Stuart as saying:

"It's tough to have a third string catcher like Ralph Houk keep you off the All-Star team? He never made one in his life. All he ever did was sit in the dugout.

"He got into the All-Star game, himself, because Casey Stengel got fired and they made him manager of the Yankees"

Haddix, McBean Preserve 3-2 Win For Law

Halt Phils' Rally In Eighth Inning

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Harvey Haddix and Al McBean halted an eighth-inning rally with a pair of strikeouts and an infield out to preserve a 3-2 victory for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Vernon Law over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night.

Haddix came on in relief of Law with the Pirates leading 3-1 after the Phils put the tying run on second with a single by Tony Taylor to open the inning and a double by Johnny Callison. The little southpaw struck out left-handed swingers Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington.

McBean relieved Haddix when Roy Sievers batted for Frank Torre. Sievers rapped to short, where Johnny Logan bobbled the ball, letting Taylor score. Then Clay Dalrymple bounced out to Logan for an inning-ending force on Sievers.

McBean gave up two singles with two out in the ninth, but got Callison on an infield pop to end the game.

Law (2-3), bidding for his first complete game of the season, had a four-hitter until the eighth, with the only Phils' run a homer by Gonzalez in the sixth.

League Leaders Defeat Herbert For 5th Straight

Carreon's Single In Seventh Inning Only Chicago Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Southpaw Al Downing was foiled in a no-hit bid for the second straight time Tuesday night and settled for a one-hit, 3-0, triumph over the Chicago White Sox in pitching the New York Yankees to their fifth straight victory.

The 22-year-old Downing, who held the Red Sox hitless for 6 1-3 innings last Friday and then was kayoed in the seventh, did not permit a hit Tuesday night until Camilo Carreon singled sharply off his glove with two out in the seventh.

Carreon's blow was a clean hit, the ball skipping over second base and into center field after the Yankee pitcher succeeded only in slowing it up.

Seeming oblivious to the sultry, shirt-sticking 85-degree temperature, Downing struck out 10 batters and walked six while achieving his third victory against one defeat.

The Yankees scored their first run in 20 consecutive innings off loser Ray Herbert when they went ahead, 1-0, in the third inning on Hector Lopez' single, Clete Boyer's long fly and Tony Kubek's single.

Lopez' sixth home run following Elston Howard's single produced the Yankees' final two runs in the fifth and saddled Herbert with his fifth loss in 13 decisions.

Nats' Daniels Beats KC, 7-2

Athletics' Infield Collapses In Fifth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators took advantage of four Kansas City errors and Bennie Daniels' seven-hit pitching Tuesday night to whip the Athletics, 7-2.

The Senators made a winning break-through in the fifth when the Kansas City infield fell apart with the score tied, 1-1. Ed Brinkman and Hobie Landrith reached base on successive errors, were bunted along, and scored on Marv Breeding's soft single to center.

Breeding came home on another error by Ed Charles and a single by Jim King.

In the ninth, singles by Don Zimmer and Daniels, a hit batsman and a throwing error by reliever Dale Willis accounted for two more Washington runs.

King had tied the game in the fourth when he tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly. The A's picked up a run in the top of the fourth on Norm Siebern's double, a wild pitch and an infield out.

For Daniels, it was his second win against three losses. Kansas City starter Orlando Pena absorbed his 11th loss against five wins.

Morehead Hurls Bosox To 6-1 Win

No-Hits Cleveland For Seven Innings

Bulletin rb

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Dave Morehead pitched hitless ball for seven innings and wound up with a two-hitter Tuesday night as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians, 6-1.

The 19-year-old righthander lost his bid for a no-hitter in the eighth inning when Fred Whitfield led off with a grounder that took a freak hop and bounced over second baseman Chuck Schilling's head into right field for a single.

John Romano, placed on the active list shortly before the game, then led off the ninth inning with a pinch home run. Romano, who had been sidelined with a broken hand, drove the ball over the fence in left field.

Morehead evened his record at 5-5, retiring 20 batters in a row before he walked Willie Kirkland with two out in the seventh inning to ruin a possible perfect game. The only other Indian to reach base was Al Luplow, who walked with two out in the ninth. But Morehead struck out Kirkland to end the game.

Morehead also singled home one of the Boston runs as the Red Sox took a 2-0 lead in the second inning against Barry Latman.

Yankees' Al Downing Allows One Hit In Beating White Sox, 3-0

League Leaders Defeat Herbert For 5th Straight

Carreon's Single In Seventh Inning Only Chicago Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Southpaw Al Downing was foiled in a no-hit bid for the second straight time Tuesday night and settled for a one-hit, 3-0, triumph over the Chicago White Sox in pitching the New York Yankees to their fifth straight victory.

The 22-year-old Downing, who held the Red Sox hitless for 6 1-3 innings last Friday and then was kayoed in the seventh, did not permit a hit Tuesday night until Camilo Carreon singled sharply off his glove with two out in the seventh.

Carreon's blow was a clean hit, the ball skipping over second base and into center field after the Yankee pitcher succeeded only in slowing it up.

Seeming oblivious to the sultry, shirt-sticking 85-degree temperature, Downing struck out 10 batters and walked six while achieving his third victory against one defeat.

The Yankees scored their first run in 20 consecutive innings off loser Ray Herbert when they went ahead, 1-0, in the third inning on Hector Lopez' single, Clete Boyer's long fly and Tony Kubek's single.

Lopez' sixth home run following Elston Howard's single produced the Yankees' final two runs in the fifth and saddled Herbert with his fifth loss in 13 decisions.

Nats' Daniels Beats KC, 7-2

Athletics' Infield Collapses In Fifth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators took advantage of four Kansas City errors and Bennie Daniels' seven-hit pitching Tuesday night to whip the Athletics, 7-2.

The Senators made a winning break-through in the fifth when the Kansas City infield fell apart with the score tied, 1-1. Ed Brinkman and Hobie Landrith reached base on successive errors, were bunted along, and scored on Marv Breeding's soft single to center.

Breeding came home on another error by Ed Charles and a single by Jim King.

In the ninth, singles by Don Zimmer and Daniels, a hit batsman and a throwing error by reliever Dale Willis accounted for two more Washington runs.

King had tied the game in the fourth when he tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly. The A's picked up a run in the top of the fourth on Norm Siebern's double, a wild pitch and an infield out.

For Daniels, it was his second win against three losses. Kansas City starter Orlando Pena absorbed his 11th loss against five wins.

NAB Contends FCC Can't Legally Ban Race Broadcasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Association of Broadcasters said Tuesday the Federal Communications Commission has no legal authority to ban broadcasts of horse races or horse race results.

The contention is advanced in objections filed by the NAB to a proposal under study by the FCC for restricting broadcasts of horse races, pre-race and post race information on such things as previous records, odds, results, scratches, post positions and pari-mutuel prices.

The FCC contends such broadcasts, if made more than once every two weeks, would aid illegal off-track betting.

The FCC extended the deadline for filing comments on the proposed new broadcast rules from Monday until next Monday.

WVU Game To Appear On National Telecast

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI)—The chairman of the television committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) said Tuesday his group is considering raising the number of college football teams making television debuts each season.

Paul Brechler, whose committee wound up a two day meeting here Tuesday, said members also considered possible ways of helping colleges who feel they are being hurt at the gate by competition from televised games.

NCAA regulations require that five colleges which have not previously appeared on national telecasts be scheduled for television each season. The newcomers this fall will be Florida, South Carolina, Clemson, Arizona and West Virginia.

Doddrill Is New Mannington Coach

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI)—Jim Haugh resigned Tuesday as basketball coach at nearby Mannington High School and was replaced by Donald Doddrill, who has been coach at Barnes Junior High School.

The Marion County Board of Education said Haugh would remain on the Mannington faculty but had asked to be relieved of his coaching duties. He also had been assistant football coach.

Cubs Down Mets, 4-1

Jackson Makes Costly Error

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs used New York pitcher Al Jackson's base-throwing blunder to touch off a second-inning splurge of three unearned runs Tuesday and downed the Mets 4-1.

With one out in the second, Andre Rodgers singled. Pitcher Bob Buhl, who padded his record to 7-5 with a six-hitter, bunted past the mound. Jackson took it and his wild shot to first went into the Mets' dugout for an error, sending Rodgers to third and Buhl to second.

Lou Brock scored Rodgers with a sacrifice fly. A single by Ellis Burton and Billy Williams' double accounted for the other two runs.

In the uprising, Jackson was replaced by Galen Cisco. Cisco, Larry Bearnarth and Don Rowe combined to hold the Cubs scoreless on one hit the rest of the way. Jackson was pinned with his eighth loss. He has six victories.

The Cubs' other run came in the first.

The Mets, who absorbed their fourth defeat in a row, spoiled Buhl's shutout with a run in the fourth on three successive singles after two outs.

Fresno Gets Bout

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano will defend his crown against Irish Wayne Thornton in a bout tentatively scheduled for Aug. 30 in Fresno, promoter Harold Murrell said Tuesday.

Murrell said both fighters have agreed to terms and contracts will be drawn up this week.

Houk Defends Omission Of Four Players From AL All-Star Team

Passes Over Maris, Ford, Monbouquette And Dick Stuart

By JOHN GRIFFIN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Houk, a guy who proved his willingness to stand up to fire in a place called Bastogne, was answering with calm logic today any questions about the four most prominent players he omitted in picking the American League All-Star squad reserves.

Two of the absentees were members of Houk's own Yankees—slugger Roger Maris, who has a .301 batting average and 17 homers, and southpaw pitcher Whitey Ford, who has a 12-3 won-lost record.

The other pair was from the Boston Red Sox—first baseman Dick Stuart, who has 17 homers and 50 runs-batted-in, and pitcher Bill Monbouquette, who has an 11-5 record.

Houk, the AL team skipper for the July 9 game at Cleveland by virtue of having commanded the 1962 pennant-winning Yankees, today named all the catching, infield, and outfield replacements and the seven-man pitching staff. The eight starters were picked by vote of the AL players themselves.

Offers Explanations

To anybody raising any eyebrows about the four "snubbed" players, here's the way ex-Maj. Houk sized up each case:

Maris, despite a return to stardom that has paced the Yankees into a solid-first place lead, did not finish 1-2 in the players' voting for right field. And Houk tried "as much as possible" to follow the pattern of the vote.

Ford and Monbouquette both were passed over for the same reason—Houk was reluctant to take more than one pitcher from any one team because "it places a burden" on a team to have two pitchers tapped for duty.

Ford was by-passed in favor of Yankee teammate Jim Bouton, whose 10-3 record is about as good and also has the edge of being righthanded (most of the National League starters are righthanded).

As for Monbouquette, he was sidetracked in favor of Boston teammate Dick Radatz, the hottest relief pitcher in the majors and a virtual "must" selection for the squad.

Siebern Over Stuart

Stuart was second in the voting for first base. But here, unlike the situation in right field, Houk went against the pattern to pick Norm Siebern of the A's. The rules say the squad must include one member of each team, and Houk figured Siebern as the most deserving Athletic.

In addition to Bouton and Radatz, Houk named as his pitchers Jim Bunning (4-9) of Detroit, Steve Barber (12-5) of Baltimore, Jim Grant (4-8) of Cleveland, Ken McBride (9-6) of Los Angeles, and Juan Pizarro (9-4) of Chicago.

The starting infield, picked by the players, will be—Joe Pepitone, Yankees, 1b; Nellie Fox, White Sox, 2b; Zoilo Versalles, Twins, ss; and Frank Malzone, Red Sox, 3b. Going strictly for runnerups in the voting, except at first base, Houk picked Siebern, Luis Aparicio and Brooks Robinson of the Orioles, and Bobby Richardson of the Yankees as subs.

Back Up Outfield

To back up the starting outfield of Leon Wagner and Albie Pearson of the Angels and Al Kaline of the Tigers, Houk added Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrews of the Twins, Tom Tresh of the Yankees, and Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox.

Behind catcher Earl Battey, Houk picked Elston Howard of the Yankees and Don Leppert of the Senators.

The squad thus includes five Yankees, four Twins, three each from the Orioles, Red Sox, and Angels, two each from the White Sox and Tigers, and one each from the Indians, A's, and Senators.

Coaches will be managers Sam Mele of the Twins and Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox; batting practice pitchers Bill Fisher of the A's and Claude Osteen of the Senators; batting practice catcher Jim Hegan of the Yankees; and trainer Wally Bock of the Indians.

Bob Johnson's 68 Leads Qualifiers In West Virginia

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—Charleston southpaw Bob Johnson—who freely admits he's playing the best golf of his life this year—fired a two-under-par 68 Tuesday for medalist honors in the 44th annual State Men's Amateur Golf tournament.

Johnson turned in the only sub-par performance in the field of 96 entrants in the qualifying round.

Huntington's Jim Ward, a youngster who knocked both Johnson and 10-time champion Ed Tutwiler of Charleston out of the tournament last year, followed Johnson with a 71.

Bunched at 72 were Tutwiler, Dave Clovis of Clarksburg, A. J. Gray and Andy Hoffman, both of Wheeling, and Ned Payne III of Beckley.

Defending champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, who will be after his eighth title, did not have to qualify. Clarksburg sports announcer Jay Randolph, who lost 8 and 7 to Campbell last year, had a 74 Tuesday.

Vendors' Strike Settled; Price Of Hot Dogs Goes Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strike by vendors at D.C. Stadium has been settled after 2½ months, but fans attending baseball games will have to pay five cents more for a hot dog.

D.C. Sports Services Inc., announced Monday night that the District Armory Board, which controls the stadium, has approved a settlement and an increase in the price of hot dogs from 25 to 30 cents.

The strike over a wage dispute resulted in pickets parading in front of the ball park ever since opening day. The pickets stepped aside so that President Kennedy could attend opening day without crossing a picket line.

The dispute involved the Concessionaire, D.C. Sports Services Inc., and Local 473 of the Cafeteria and Restaurant Workers Union.

The new two-year contract calls for wage increases for porters, cleaners, linen workers, commissary helpers and stand attendants. Vendors got an increase in their commissions from 15 to 16 per cent immediately and to 17 per cent in the second year of the contract.

Angler Wins $1,000 In Trout Festival

FLIN FLON, Manitoba (AP)—One trout earned George Lakefield of Sherwood, N.D., $1,000.

It was no ordinary trout. The fish Lakefield hooked weighted 41½ pounds, was 41½ inches long and had a girth of 30 inches.

The American caught the trout in Clearwater Lake near The Pas, Man., on June 15, the opening day of the Flin Flon Trout Festival Derby. On Monday night, when the Derby ended, Lakefield's prize still was the biggest trout of them all and he was awarded the $1,000.

Cubs Down Mets, 4-1

Jackson Makes Costly Error

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs used New York pitcher Al Jackson's base-throwing blunder to touch off a second-inning splurge of three unearned runs Tuesday and downed the Mets 4-1.

With one out in the second, Andre Rodgers singled. Pitcher Bob Buhl, who padded his record to 7-5 with a six-hitter, bunted past the mound. Jackson took it and his wild shot to first went into the Mets' dugout for an error, sending Rodgers to third and Buhl to second.

Lou Brock scored Rodgers with a sacrifice fly. A single by Ellis Burton and Billy Williams' double accounted for the other two runs.

In the uprising, Jackson was replaced by Galen Cisco. Cisco, Larry Bearnarth and Don Rowe combined to hold the Cubs scoreless on one hit the rest of the way. Jackson was pinned with his eighth loss. He has six victories.

The Cubs' other run came in the first.

The Mets, who absorbed their fourth defeat in a row, spoiled Buhl's shutout with a run in the fourth on three successive singles after two outs.

Houk Defends Omission Of Four Players From AL All-Star Team

By JOHN GRIFFIN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Houk, a guy who proved his willingness to stand up to fire in a place called Bastogne, was answering with calm logic today any questions about the four most prominent players he omitted in picking the American League All-Star squad reserves.

Two of the absentees were members of Houk's own Yankees—slugger Roger Maris, who has a .301 batting average and 17 homers, and southpaw pitcher Whitey Ford, who has a 12-3 won-lost record.

The other pair was from the Boston Red Sox—first baseman Dick Stuart, who has 17 homers and 50 runs-batted-in, and pitcher Bill Monbouquette, who has an 11-5 record.

Houk, the AL team skipper for the July 9 game at Cleveland by virtue of having commanded the 1962 pennant-winning Yankees, today named all the catching, infield, and outfield replacements and the seven-man pitching staff. The eight starters were picked by vote of the AL players themselves.

Offers Explanations

To anybody raising any eyebrows about the four "snubbed" players, here's the way ex-Maj. Houk sized up each case:

Maris, despite a return to stardom that has paced the Yankees into a solid-first place lead, did not finish 1-2 in the players' voting for right field. And Houk tried "as much as possible" to follow the pattern of the vote.

Ford and Monbouquette both were passed over for the same reason—Houk was reluctant to take more than one pitcher from any one team because "it places a burden" on a team to have two pitchers tapped for duty.

Ford was by-passed in favor of Yankee teammate Jim Bouton, whose 10-3 record is about as good and also has the edge of being righthanded (most of the National League starters are righthanded).

As for Monbouquette, he was sidetracked in favor of Boston teammate Dick Radatz, the hottest relief pitcher in the majors and a virtual "must" selection for the squad.

Siebern Over Stuart

Stuart was second in the voting for first base. But here, unlike the situation in right field, Houk went against the pattern to pick Norm Siebern of the A's. The rules say the squad must include one member of each team, and Houk figured Siebern as the most deserving Athletic.

In addition to Bouton and Radatz, Houk named as his pitchers Jim Bunning (4-9) of Detroit, Steve Barber (12-5) of Baltimore, Jim Grant (4-8) of Cleveland, Ken McBride (9-6) of Los Angeles, and Juan Pizarro (9-4) of Chicago.

The starting infield, picked by the players, will be—Joe Pepitone, Yankees, 1b; Nellie Fox, White Sox, 2b; Zoilo Versalles, Twins, ss; and Frank Malzone, Red Sox, 3b. Going strictly for runnerups in the voting, except at first base, Houk picked Siebern, Luis Aparicio and Brooks Robinson of the Orioles, and Bobby Richardson of the Yankees as subs.

Back Up Outfield

To back up the starting outfield of Leon Wagner and Albie Pearson of the Angels and Al Kaline of the Tigers, Houk added Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrews of the Twins, Tom Tresh of the Yankees, and Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox.

Behind catcher Earl Battey, Houk picked Elston Howard of the Yankees and Don Leppert of the Senators.

The squad thus includes five Yankees, four Twins, three each from the Orioles, Red Sox, and Angels, two each from the White Sox and Tigers, and one each from the Indians, A's, and Senators.

Coaches will be managers Sam Mele of the Twins and Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox; batting practice pitchers Bill Fisher of the A's and Claude Osteen of the Senators; batting practice catcher Jim Hegan of the Yankees; and trainer Wally Bock of the Indians.

Bob Johnson's 68 Leads Qualifiers In West Virginia

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—Charleston southpaw Bob Johnson—who freely admits he's playing the best golf of his life this year—fired a two-under-par 68 Tuesday for medalist honors in the 44th annual State Men's Amateur Golf tournament.

Johnson turned in the only subpar performance in the field of 96 entrants in the qualifying round.

Huntington's Jim Ward, a youngster who knocked both Johnson and 10-time champion Ed Tutwiler of Charleston out of the tournament last year, followed Johnson with a 71.

Bunched at 72 were Tutwiler, Dave Clovis of Clarksburg, A. J. Gray and Andy Hoffman, both of Wheeling, and Ned Payne III of Beckley.

Defending champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, who will be after his eighth title, did not have to qualify. Clarksburg sports announcer Jay Randolph, who lost 8 and 7 to Campbell last year, had a 74 Tuesday.

Vendors' Strike Settled; Price Of Hot Dogs Goes Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strike by vendors at D.C. Stadium has been settled after 2½ months, but fans attending baseball games will have to pay five cents more for a hot dog.

D.C. Sports Services Inc., announced Monday night that the District Armory Board, which controls the stadium, has approved a settlement and an increase in the price of hot dogs from 25 to 30 cents.

The strike over a wage dispute resulted in pickets parading in front of the ball park ever since opening day. The pickets stepped aside so that President Kennedy could attend opening day without crossing a picket line.

The dispute involved the Concessionaire, D.C. Sports Services Inc., and Local 473 of the Cafeteria and Restaurant Workers Union.

The new two-year contract calls for wage increases for porters, cleaners, linen workers, commissary helpers and stand attendants. Vendors got an increase in their commissions from 15 to 16 per cent immediately and to 17 per cent in the second year of the contract.

Angler Wins $1,000 In Trout Festival

FLIN FLON, Manitoba (AP)—One trout earned George Lakefield of Sherwood, N.D., $1,000.

It was no ordinary trout. The fish Lakefield hooked weighted 41½ pounds, was 41½ inches long and had a girth of 30 inches.

The American caught the trout in Clearwater Lake near The Pas, Man., on June 15, the opening day of the Flin Flon Trout Festival Derby. On Monday night, when the Derby ended, Lakefield's prize still was the biggest trout of them all and he was awarded the $1,000.

Stocks Score Their Best Gains In Over Six Months

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took to the high road Tuesday, chalking up their best gain in more than six months.

Dow-Jones industrial average rose 7.59, its biggest advance since Jan. 8 when the blue chip indicator gained 7.74, to 708.94. Standard & Poor's more comprehensive 500 stock index jumped 0.60 to 69.56.

Trading expanded slightly to 3,540,000 shares from 3,360,000 shares which changed hands Monday. Advances outnumbered declines, with 743 issues moving higher while only 316 retreated. Of the 1,284 issues traded, 21 rose to new 1963 highs and 25 dropped to new lows.

Chrysler again topped the market in activity, rising 1⅞ to 63¼ on a turnover of 74,800 shares.

It was followed in activity by Control Data up 3½, Gillette up 1, Pan American up 2¼ and New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad up 1.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans plummeted from sharp heights in a frantic last minute siege of selling Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Nearby wheat ended firm, while other grains plunged with soybeans.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅝ to up 2; corn off ¾ to 1⅞; oats off 1 to 1⅝; rye off 1½ to 3¼; and soybeans off 2⅝ to 6⅞.

Some soybean contracts tumbled the daily limit of 10 cents a bushel after others had advanced the 10 cents.

Weather continued to play the major role in the grain market. Monday's enthusiasm for soybeans which carried all contracts the 10-cent daily limit was carried over in Tuesday's early trade. Some contracts opened with a 10-cent gain.

New crop corn held firm. Nearby corn ran into selling by longs and cash interests and ended barely steady.

Improved flour sales sparked heavy mill buying of wheat. Hedge selling increased but was readily absorbed.

Oats fell more than a cent, when commission house selling disclosed a weak demand.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Stocks Score Their Best Gains In Over Six Months

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took to the high road Tuesday, chalking up their best gain in more than six months.

Dow-Jones industrial average rose 7.59, its biggest advance since Jan. 8 when the blue chip indicator gained 7.74, to 708.94. Standard & Poor's more comprehensive 500 stock index jumped 0.60 to 69.56.

Trading expanded slightly to 3,540,000 shares from 3,360,000 shares which changed hands Monday. Advances outnumbered declines, with 743 issues moving higher while only 316 retreated. Of the 1,284 issues traded, 21 rose to new 1963 highs and 25 dropped to new lows.

Chrysler again topped the market in activity, rising 1⅞ to 63¼ on a turnover of 74,800 shares.

It was followed in activity by Control Data up 3½, Gillette up 1, Pan American up 2¼ and New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad up 1.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans plummeted from sharp heights in a frantic last minute siege of selling Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Nearby wheat ended firm, while other grains plunged with soybeans.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅝ to up 2; corn off ¾ to 1⅞; oats off 1 to 1⅝; rye off 1½ to 3¼; and soybeans off 2⅝ to 6⅞.

Some soybean contracts tumbled the daily limit of 10 cents a bushel after others had advanced the 10 cents.

Weather continued to play the major role in the grain market. Monday's enthusiasm for soybeans which carried all contracts the 10-cent daily limit was carried over in Tuesday's early trade. Some contracts opened with a 10-cent gain.

New crop corn held firm. Nearby corn ran into selling by longs and cash interests and ended barely steady.

Improved flour sales sparked heavy mill buying of wheat. Hedge selling increased but was readily absorbed.

Oats fell more than a cent, when commission house selling disclosed a weak demand.

Selling by locals depressed rye. Prices were down more than 3 cents.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

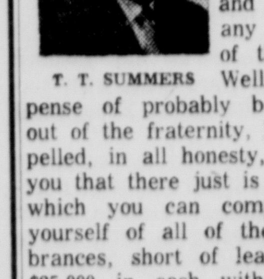
Realty Ramblings . . .

This is the time of year when more houses are being bought per diem than at any other season. Therefore, it is only natural for me to assume that this column will be read by more people who are contemplating buying, than will see it at any other time.



T. T. SUMMERS

Furthermore, it would seem most fitting for me to tell you how you can get the house you want without any muss or bother inconvenience and without any stretching of the budget. Well, at the expense of probably being voted out of the fraternity, I am compelled, in all honesty, to inform you that there just is no way in which you can completely rid yourself of all of these encumbrances, short of leaving about $25,000 in cash with a broker with instructions to do the best he can for you while you and your wife are touring Europe.

But a more practical, safer, more economical approach would be for you to let our office find the type of house you are seeking for you, and then expose it to your approval. This method will not rid you completely of all of the less appreciated parts of home buying; but they will reduce these unpleasantries to a minimum and, in most cases, they will become so little noticed that you will look back upon the transaction with pleasure, pride and money-in-the-bank.

Can you think of any better reason why you should come to us with your home requirements? We'll prove what we have just said — Try us!

Realty Ramblings . . .

This is the time of year when more houses are being bought per diem than at any other season. Therefore, it is only natural for me to assume that this column will be read by more people who are contemplating buying, than will see it at any other time.

T. T. SUMMERS

Furthermore, it would seem most fitting for me to tell you how you can get the house you want without any muss or bother inconvenience and without any stretching of the budget. Well, at the expense of probably being voted out of the fraternity, I am compelled, in all honesty, to inform you that there just is no way in which you can completely rid yourself of all of these encumbrances, short of leaving about $25,000 in cash with a broker with instructions to do the best he can for you while you and your wife are touring Europe.

But a more practical, safer, more economical approach would be for you to let our office find the type of house you are seeking for you, and then expose it to your approval. This method will not rid you completely of all of the less appreciated parts of home buying; but they will reduce these unpleasantries to a minimum and, in most cases, they will become so little noticed that you will look back upon the transaction with pleasure, pride and money-in-the-bank.

Can you think of any better reason why you should come to us with your home requirements? We'll prove what we have just said — Try us!

SRC Schedules Five Road Jobs

Includes Route 40, Thruway Work

Five major highway projects in this area have been scheduled for advertising by the State Roads Commission during the coming months. With the construction represented by the contracts, U.S. Route 40 will become a modern highway from Hancock to Cumberland, the South Approach of the Cumberland Thruway will be extended to Williams Street and the East Approach of the Thruway will be completed to Maryland Avenue.

The schedule for the work was announced at a recent meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club when Edward Habeeb, president of the Route 40 Association invited officials of the State Roads Commission to discuss progress being made toward the construction of local highway projects.

During the luncheon meeting, Robert J. Hajzyk, chief of the Planning and Programming section of the SRC, reported that dates for advertising of local projects have been established.

Lists Schedule

A list of contracts and advertising dates follows:

U.S. Route 40, from Mountain Road to Davis Road, in the Green Ridge section. The project will include 3.205 miles of dual-lane highway and a bridge over Fifteen Mile Creek. Advertising date —July 9, 1963.

The Wineow Street Bridge and its north approach which will complete the South Approach of the Cumberland Thruway from the Evitts Creek Bridge to Williams Street here.

Originally scheduled for advertising yesterday, the request for bids was reset to include the construction of its north approach, which will run about .4 mile from the end of the bridge to Williams Street. Advertising date — July 30, 1963.

U. S. Route 40, from Sideling Hill Mountain to Hancock. The contract will include 3.60 miles of relocated highway, part of it dual. Advertising date—October 1, 1963.

To Build Approach

East Approach to the Cumberland Thruway, from Willowbrook Road to Maryland Avenue. The contract calls for .75 mile of dual highway and includes the big interchange at Willowbrook Road and Baltimore Avenue and a bridge. Advertising date—December 1, 1963.

U. S. Route 40, from Naves Crossroad to Martin Mountain. The contract will call for the construction of 2.46 miles of new dual highway. The contract will be advertised early in 1964, but the exact date has not been determined, Mr. Hajzyk reported.

The SRC officials noted that when the Route 40 sections are completed, Route 40 will be completely reconstructed from Hancock to Cumberland.

The Thruway work, they added, will complete the South Approach of the Thruway from the Evitts Creek Bridge to Williams Street, and the East Approach as far as Maryland Avenue, where the overhead structure will begin.

The Route 40 Association was represented at the conference by Mr. Habeeb; J. Goodloe Jackson, regional vice president; Dr. Benedist Skitarelic, vice president, and Thomas R. Wolford, treasurer.

Representing the SRC were John J. McMullen, commission member; Mr. Hajzyk and John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer.

City Radar Equipment Being Used

The Cumberland Police Department is placing its radar equipment in service this week in time to curb Fourth of July speeding, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan announced yesterday.

He said the equipment was sent to the factory, where it was redesigned to allow its operation during day or night and with a single operator.

The portable equipment, he said, indicates the speed of vehicles on tape which can be torn off and exhibited in court as a proof of speed.

Children must be protected, he stressed in announcing plans for strict curbs on speeding vehicles.

Complaints of speeding have been coming in from many sections of the city, police said.

The city speed limit is 25 miles an hour, police said, except in school zones and congested areas, and when driving conditions do not warrant the normal speed.

Careful drivers, police said, slow down when they see children playing so they can stop in case one of the children should run into the street.

New Telephone Service Slated For Kitzmiller

Changeover Set For Early Sunday

New telephone numbers for subscribers at Kitzmiller and Blaine, W. Va., will go into effect Sunday morning, according to Richard K. Dayton, local manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Mr. Dayton said the change is scheduled to take place at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. At that time, the present equipment in the Kitzmiller office will be replaced with a newer and more modern type.

Work on the new system began earlier this year when an addition was made on the exchange building at Kitzmiller. Installers of the Western Electric Company then began placing the new equipment. Since the equipment was installed, it has undergone a series of tests.

Telephone company installers under the direction of C. L. Stem, service foreman, have visited the location of every telephone in the exchange to place the new numbers. The new all-number calling designations also will become effective with the changeover.

Delivery of the new Garrett County telephone directory also has been completed and subscribers, but subscribers have been asked not to use the new numbers for Kitzmiller and Blaine until after the changeover Sunday.

Mr. Dayton said if anyone has any questions about the changeover he should call the business office in Oakland, 334-9901.

Collections For June Top $3.5 Million

June collections in state, county and special taxing area real estate and personal property taxes at the office of County Tax Collector Francis G. Philpot reached a whopping $3,526,635.36 with those received Monday when a five pre cent discount still was allowed.

Mr. Philpot said last night that he did not yet have a breakdown as to the share the county, state and four special taxing areas will receive but is convinced that the county's share will be well above $3,000,000.

The collector and his staff wished to express appreciation to the public for cooperation in prompt payment of taxes.

Last June, when the county tax rate was $1.85 on each $100 of assessed valuation, the collections in county taxes alone reached $2,803,842.42. This year the county rate is $2.05 which should bring in more county revenue.

During July a four per cent discount is allowed on county taxes.

Clerks from Mr. Philpot's office will tour seven communities around the county starting next week. They will sit at the Frostburg Fire Hall from 9:30 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, July 9, and again Wednesday, July 24. They will be at the Westernport Town Hall from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m. Thursday, July 11, and Thursday, July 25.

Other visits are scheduled to the Lonaconing Fire Hall, 9:30 a. m. until 3 p. m. Friday, July 12; Barton Town Hall, 9:30 a. m. until noon, Monday, July 15; Midland Fire Hall, 9:30 a. m. until noon, Tuesday, July 16; Mt. Savage VFW Home, 9:30 a. m. until noon, Wednesday, July 10, and Flintstone Fire Hall, 10 a. m. until noon, Friday, July 19.

Jail Sentences Suspended In Trespass Case

Four local men were given suspended jail sentences yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court after they were found guilty of trespassing on the property of a local brewery.

The men, Donald P. Renotas, 709 Hill Top Drive; Robert Schell, 617 Brookfield Avenue; Ronald Metz, 33 North Liberty Street, and Cortez (Jimmy) Childress, were found guilty of trespassing on the property of the Queen City Brewing Company on June 8.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt gave each man a 90-day suspended sentence on condition they all refrain from drinking and stay out of any establishment in Allegany County which serves alcoholic beverages. They also were ordered to stay away from each other and away from the properties of both local breweries during the 90-day period.

The four men also were charged with assaulting a watchman at the brewery the same night, but Magistrate Weatherholt dismissed those charges for lack of evidence.

William L. Wilson Jr., local attorney, represented the brewery, and the four men were defended by Thomas N. Berry.

Pet Show Planned At Penn Ave.

Mrs. Gelia Puffenberger, playground director of Pennsylvania Avenue playground, announced that a pet show will be held today at 7 p. m. at Pennsylvania Avenue Playground.

Ribbons will be awarded to the largest, smallest, best costumed, most unusual and best groomed pet, and the winners will compete in the Intra-City Pet Show July 11, at Constitution Park.

Five major highway projects in this area have been scheduled for advertising by the State Roads Commission during the coming months. With the construction represented by the contracts, U.S. Route 40 will become a modern highway from Hancock to Cumberland, the South Approach of the Cumberland Thruway will be extended to Williams Street and the East Approach of the Thruway will be completed to Maryland Avenue.

The schedule for the work was announced at a recent meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club when Edward Habeeb, president of the Route 40 Association invited officials of the State Roads Commission to discuss progress being made toward the construction of local highway projects.

During the luncheon meeting, Robert J. Hajzyk, chief of the Planning and Programming section of the SRC, reported that dates for advertising of local projects have been established.

Lists Schedule

A list of contracts and advertising dates follows:

U.S. Route 40, from Mountain Road to Davis Road, in the Green Ridge section. The project will include 3.205 miles of dual-lane highway and a bridge over Fifteen Mile Creek. Advertising date —July 9, 1963.

The Wineow Street Bridge and its north approach which will complete the South Approach of the Cumberland Thruway from the Evitts Creek Bridge to Williams Street here.

Originally scheduled for advertising yesterday, the request for bids was reset to include the construction of its north approach, which will run about .4 mile from the end of the bridge to Williams Street. Advertising date — July 30, 1963.

U. S. Route 40, from Sideling Hill Mountain to Hancock. The contract will include 3.60 miles of relocated highway, part of it dual. Advertising date—October 1, 1963.

To Build Approach

East Approach to the Cumberland Thruway, from Willowbrook Road to Maryland Avenue. The contract calls for .75 mile of dual highway and includes the big interchange at Willowbrook Road and Baltimore Avenue and a bridge. Advertising date—December 1, 1963.

U. S. Route 40, from Naves Crossroad to Martin Mountain. The contract will call for the construction of 2.46 miles of new dual highway. The contract will be advertised early in 1964, but the exact date has not been determined, Mr. Hajzyk reported.

The SRC officials noted that when the Route 40 sections are completed, Route 40 will be completely reconstructed from Hancock to Cumberland.

The Thruway work, they added, will complete the South Approach of the Thruway from the Evitts Creek Bridge to Williams Street, and the East Approach as far as Maryland Avenue, where the overhead structure will begin.

The Route 40 Association was represented at the conference by Mr. Habeeb; J. Goodloe Jackson, regional vice president; Dr. Benedist Skitarelic, vice president, and Thomas R. Wolford, treasurer.

Representing the SRC were John J. McMullen, commission member; Mr. Hajzyk and John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer.

City Radar Equipment Being Used

The Cumberland Police Department is placing its radar equipment in service this week in time to curb Fourth of July speeding, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan announced yesterday.

He said the equipment was sent to the factory, where it was redesigned to allow its operation during day or night and with a single operator.

The portable equipment, he said, indicates the speed of vehicles on tape which can be torn off and exhibited in court as a proof of speed.

Children must be protected, he stressed in announcing plans for strict curbs on speeding vehicles.

Complaints of speeding have been coming in from many sections of the city, police said.

The city speed limit is 25 miles an hour, police said, except in school zones and congested areas, and when driving conditions do not warrant the normal speed.

Careful drivers, police said, slow down when they see children playing so they can stop in case one of the children should run into the street.

New Telephone Service Slated For Kitzmiller

Changeover Set For Early Sunday

New telephone numbers for subscribers at Kitzmiller and Blaine, W. Va., will go into effect Sunday morning, according to Richard K. Dayton, local manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Mr. Dayton said the change is scheduled to take place at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. At that time, the present equipment in the Kitzmiller office will be replaced with a newer and more modern type.

Work on the new system began earlier this year when an addition was made on the exchange building at Kitzmiller. Installers of the Western Electric Company then began placing the new equipment. Since the equipment was installed, it has undergone a series of tests.

Telephone company installers under the direction of C. L. Stem, service foreman, have visited the location of every telephone in the exchange to place the new numbers. The new all-number calling designations also will become effective with the changeover.

Delivery of the new Garrett County telephone directory also has been completed and subscribers, but subscribers have been asked not to use the new numbers for Kitzmiller and Blaine until after the changeover Sunday.

Mr. Dayton said if anyone has any questions about the changeover he should call the business office in Oakland, 334-9901.

Last June, when the county tax rate was $1.85 on each $100 of assessed valuation, the collections in county taxes alone reached $2,803,842.42. This year the county rate is $2.05 which should bring in more county revenue.
